JUDGMENT ON SINKING FUND IS RESERVED

Aldermen Await Ex-Mayor's Evidence Before Reaching Conclusion

No conclusions on the sinking fund question will be reached by the Finance Committee until the present investigation into the handling of city sinking funds in the past has been completed, Aldermen E. S. Woodward, Chairman of the Finance Committee, declared to-day.

"We have not reached any conclusion so far," he said. "And we will not form any opinion until we have heard all evidence. The investigation will go on again next Tuesday."

Ex-Mayor Robert J. Porter will be the chief witness when the probe proceeds again next week. City Auditor J. S. Floyd and Robert Baird, Inspector of Municipalities, whose report on Victoria sinking funds, precipitated the present investigation, also will be asked to give evidence. After City Comptroller J. L. Baymir had been on the stand for an hour and a half yesterday morning the Finance Committee, which is investigating the sinking fund question, heard evidence from City Treasurer E. C. Smith and former City Auditor J. L. Crimison.

W. J. Sargent, former chairman of the civic Finance Committee, also gave testimony to show that his regime had handled sinking funds in the best possible way. Mr. Sargent, whose clear-cut evidence impressed the Committee very favorably, explained that he knew nothing about sinking fund diversions. He said that he had never authorized any such diversions. He added that he had asked City Comptroller Baymir whether sinking fund moneys were being used for general revenue and had been assured that nothing of this kind was being done. He quoted reports in The Colonist and The Times of April, 1920, to support his assertion that he had enquired about the use of sinking funds for general revenue.

CANCEL CLUB LICENSES

Incorporation licences of twenty-five of the ten-cents-to-join beer clubs in Vancouver have been cancelled by Attorney-General Farris as a result of the dry squad having caught the bartenders breaking the Government liquor laws by selling beer to members.

ANDROS ELECTION QUESTIONS WORRY COUNCIL MEMBERS

Investigate Assertion Present Council Illegally Elected

While not admitting for a moment that they regarded the matter seriously, members of the City Council nevertheless were seriously perturbed by the announcement of ex-Alderman E. B. Andros last night that he had been advised by his lawyers that the present City Council was not legally elected.

Early this morning members of the Council conferred on the Andros assertions with City Solicitor H. S. Pringle, who drew up the city's private bill under which the last municipal election here was held. Mr. Pringle, while not wishing to commit himself on the subject until he had had an opportunity to investigate it fully, intimated that he did not think that any court would sustain Mr. Andros' objections to the 1921 poll. The intention of the city's private bill in this connection, he declared, was perfectly plain.

Aldermen were much comforted by the Solicitor's statement but it is planned now to have the matter thoroughly investigated so that the Council may know for certain that it is really a legally constituted body. One member of the Council, it is understood, will move that a report on the question be framed immediately by the Solicitor.

Will Not Act.

Alderman Andros made it clear to-day that he had merely raised the question of the Council's status. He did not intend, he said, to take the matter into the courts with the idea of upsetting the last election.

EXPRESS THANKS TO ALDERMAN WOODWARD

At the regular monthly meeting of the Retail Clerks' Association James Talbot was again elected president for the coming year. J. M. Thomas was chosen as first vice-president and D. Watterson as second vice-president. H. H. Hollins was again appointed as secretary and W. B. Christopher as treasurer. The other officers were as follows: Recorder, J. H. Renfree; inside guardian, E. Smart; guide, S. Morrish; executive members, G. T. Butler and W. J. Perrier; hon. business agent, Alderman E. S. Woodward.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted, and ordered sent to Alderman Woodward: "That this meeting of the Retail Clerks' Association place on record its pleasure at the general recognition of the invaluable public services rendered by its hon. business agent, Alderman E. S. Woodward as expressed at the polls on the occasion of the recent municipal elections. It recalls with appreciation his services over a number of years in securing improved working conditions for store clerks and trusts that his work in the larger sphere of activity may be equally successful."

The matter of the necessity for some readjustment of the Holiday Acts and By-Laws so as to prevent a recurrence of the experience of Christmas and New Year season just past was generally expressed, and the whole holiday question may be taken up in the near future.

Other matters brought forward were the increasing number of Chinese stores in the business section of the city, and the desirability of a stricter supervision of peddlers, licences and the insistence upon a more conspicuous display of name and licence number on their carts.

SOLDIER-YACHTSMAN WAS BURIED TO-DAY

The funeral of the late Charles B. Allen took place this morning at 10.30 from the B. C. Funeral Chapel, where service was conducted by Rev. G. H. Andrews. There was a large attendance and many flowers covered the casket. One hymn, "Rock of Ages," was rendered. The funeral was military, the casket being conveyed to the cemetery on a gun carriage; a firing party under Sgt. J. Watson, of Work Point, fired the salute over the grave and Bugler Hall sounded the Last Post. The pallbearers, all members of the Veterans of France, were T. B. Tebbutt, J. Craigie, F. Kilmartin, J. Coutts, W. Plaxton and J. McKivett. The remains were laid to rest in Ross Bay Cemetery.

The late C. B. Allen arrived in Victoria in December, 1915, from Hongkong, coming by way of San Francisco. He had been serving in the transport "Nile" from August, 1914, to November, 1915, making several round trips on her between the Orient and Europe. He was acting as third officer on the "Nile" which was owned by the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, but of British Registry, and was under the command of British Government at Hongkong on her arrival there from the United States, and used as a transport. Mr. Allen joined the 10th Battalion C.E.F. on his arrival here, and served with the Canadian Mounted Rifles overseas and was badly gassed. After being invalided home in 1917, he made his home in Victoria. He was a popular member of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club and will be sadly missed by its members. He owned the little yacht "Clyde," and was often to be seen sailing about the Cadboro Bay. He was a member of the veterans of France and also the Army and Navy Veterans. He leaves an aged father and two sisters in England as well as other relatives in the Old Country to mourn his loss.

King Finishes Road Class Work for Last Meeting With Cabinet

The Hon. J. H. King from an early hour to-day was busy cleaning up all his office and departmental business as Minister of Public Works for British Columbia in preparation for leaving for Ottawa next week to be sworn in as Minister of Public Works for Canada.

"I am definitely accepting the Federal portfolio," said Dr. King. "It is my intention to get away to Ottawa about the middle of next week after the caucus of Liberal members of the Legislature."

With Premier Oliver at the head of the table in the executive chamber members of the Government to-day held their last Cabinet meeting before the caucus of Liberal members which has been called for 10.30 o'clock Monday morning.

Last Meeting.

It was also the last full Cabinet meeting of the Government as it has been constituted since Premier Oliver took charge following the death of Premier Brewster in March, 1918. Because of the sentimental significance attached to to-day's meeting the Premier called in a photographer and a group picture of the Cabinet taken.

Dr. King will be absent from the next meeting as he will leave next week for Ottawa. The Hon. J. W. de W. Farris has only ten more days in the office of Attorney-General, as he returns on February 1 to the practice of law in Vancouver.

Cabinet Possibilities.

"We passed a number of routine orders-in-council and then talked over the political situation," said Premier Oliver this afternoon, after the meeting was over.

Who will be the new ministers in the Cabinet will be decided at next week's caucus of members. Reports indicate that Speaker Manson will be the new Attorney-General and Dr. Sutherland, of Revelstoke, the new Minister of Public Works. There is also a possibility that Dr. Sutherland may take over the office of Provincial Secretary and Minister of Education, if the Hon. J. D. MacLean should be transferred from it to Public Works.

Finishes Classification.

As one of his last pieces of work as Provincial Minister of Public Works before he leaves for Ottawa to become Minister of Public Works for Canada, Dr. King to-day completed the classification of roads in organized territory of the Province.

The classifications he submitted them were passed by the Executive Council this afternoon and sent on for the signature of Lieutenant-Governor Nichol.

Classification.

As head of the Department of Public Works, Dr. King has been working for a long time on his road classification in connection with his plans for building up a great road system in B. C. He spent most of last summer on the work personally, covering most of the roads of the Province. It has been his ambition to get the work completed before he left office here.

Completion of this classification is considered to be one of the important steps which the present Government has taken with regard to the road system of the Province, whereby the municipalities have agreed to contribute 25 per cent to the cost of maintenance and construction in the case of primary roads. The Government will contribute 40 per cent to the maintenance of secondary highways and 50 per cent to the cost of their construction.

Good roads men consider this as very much of an up-to-date step, and a very definite step in the development of organized territory. Hereafter the Government has been requested to maintain specified highways within municipal limits.

DEWDNEY MINE TO BE RE-OPENED

Tidewater Copper Company Encouraged by Rise in Copper

Due to a small drop in the cost of supplies, and consequently of operation, the Dewdney Mine of the Tidewater Copper Company at Sidney Inlet, West Coast, will open on February 1, stated D. M. Drumheller, jr., general superintendent of that company, to The Times this afternoon.

Mr. Drumheller came to the city to-day to confer with S. P. Moody, the local purchasing agent of the Tidewater Copper Company, on getting two crews together.

Will Secure Crews.

Mr. Drumheller expects to take a crew of 25 men up with him to the mine on February 1, while a second party of forty additional men will leave here on February 10. Samuel P. Silverman, general manager of the company, will be in this city shortly.

The Dewdney mine has been closed down for a year, being forced into inaction by the rise in the cost of operation and the sluggish copper market. With the drop in supplies and a slight rise in a firm market, the operators throughout B. C. are expected to resume work in some cases, as in this, mines were closed down altogether during the slump, and in others put on reduced output. The Dewdney mine concentrates its ore, formerly handling some 3,000 tons of ore a month, and shipping the concentrates to Tacoma smelter.

Some Reasons for Support

The following are a few of the reasons which may be considered to support the aims of the Inter-Empire Trade Organization.

There is a general consensus of opinion among the departmental committees appointed by the Board of Trade in favor of some measure to prevent "dumping," by which we understand the sale of goods in a particular market at prices lower than those at which the goods are currently offered in the country of manufacture. The view is strongly held that the frequent dumping of foreign combinations has been the expression of a persistent policy, aiming at the depression of some British industries and the prevention of the establishment of others.

It is, of course, impossible to prove the truth in every case, but there is no doubt, after careful investigation, that there is a prima facie ground in support of it. Legislation directed against the importation of goods at dumping prices is still in force in Canada, where Section 6 of the Customs Tariff Act, 1907, provides that: "In the case of articles exported to Canada of a class or kind made or produced in Canada, if the export or actual selling price to an importer in Canada is less than the fair market value of the same article then sold for home consumption in the usual and ordinary course in the country whence exported, and such special duty or 'dumping' duty shall be levied, collected and paid on such article, although it is not otherwise dutiable, provided that said special duty shall not exceed 15 per cent, ad valorem, in any case."

GOVERNMENT SELLS PLANT FOR $80,000

Industries Department Will Not Lose on T. J. Shore Factory

Premier Oliver, as Minister at the head of the Department of Industries, announced to-day that the Government has accepted the tender of B. C. Bolt and Nut Company for the purchase of the T. J. Shore Bolt, Nut, Spike and Rivet plant for $80,000. The Shore plant is in Vancouver and was financed partly by a loan of $45,000 from the Government through the Department of Industries. The head of the company recently committed suicide at Regina.

Dear Sir,

Here is a photo of Baby Ken—as hard as nails and bright as a sunbeam. He is 8 months old, and weighs 21 lb. He has been a "Virol Baby" from the age of 10 weeks, before which he was very small and thin and could never be satisfied. I usually tell his many admirers that he is a "Virol Baby."

Yours gratefully,

Virol is used in large quantities in more than 8,000 Hospitals and Infant Clinics. It is invaluable for the expectant and nursing mother herself, whilst for children it supplies these vital principles that are destroyed in the sterilizing of milk; it is also a bone and tissue builder and food of immense value. Virol babies have firm flesh, strong bones and good colour.

Sole Importers: BOYLL, Ltd., 2725 Park St., Montreal, C.W.B.

What is "Market Value"?

This provision which, it is important to observe, relates only to goods of a class or kind made or produced in Canada, does not apply to goods subject to duty equal to or exceeding 50 per cent, ad valorem, or to goods of a class or kind subject to excise duty in Canada, or to cases where difference between the selling price to the importer in Canada does not exceed 5 per cent, of the fair market value. It is laid down in the Customs regulations that the fair market value is to be estimated on the usual credit basis, except when the article is universally sold in the country of export for cash only, that the export price or selling price means the exporter's price of the goods, then a bona fide discount for cash of 2½ per cent, when deducted by the exporter on the invoice, may be allowed, and that, provided the goods have been shipped in the ordinary course after purchase, the amount of any advance in the market value of the goods between the time of purchase and the date of exportation to Canada shall not be subject to special duty. It is difficult to estimate the deterrent effect of a provision of this kind. The amount of the anti-dumping duties collected, which averaged about $70,000 a year for the period 1908-1915, is, of course, no criterion, but there is a very general belief that the measure has been successful, and it is the duty of this organization to work in harmony with the customs authorities and to furnish them with all authentic information possible for the purpose of dumping of goods furnished to them by Canadian manufacturers, so that steps may be taken to prevent this dumping of goods into the Empire by foreign countries.

The foregoing is a general outline of the policy to be adopted by this organization in regard to the manufacturing and commercial interests of the British Empire, with special reference to the prevention of dumping and the safeguarding of important staple industries.

An Opportunity Time

This year of 1922 is an opportune time for all loyal British subjects to work together in harmony and co-operation so that the objects laid down by this organization may be successfully carried out for the benefit of all concerned.

The eyes of the British Empire are now centred on the Province of British Columbia, owing to her vast wealth resources and her splendid export trade facilities, and the day is not far distant when the Province of British Columbia will become the trade centre of the British Empire.

The strong hand of the Imperial Government is being held out to encourage her overseas dominions and possessions and to assist them both financially and preferentially to the prosperity they deserve. Shall we grasp that hand and work together with a will, or shall we fall into the rut of indifference? We owe it to those noble men and women who have fought and died for us; we owe it to those who are starving in our midst, and last but not least, we owe it to our dignity as British subjects to make our Empire self-supporting and self-sustaining and free from foreign interference.

The flag we love to call our own must be kept flying over an Empire of peace and prosperity.

This appeal is sent out as a material lesson for the New Year, and all loyal British subjects wishing to co-operate and become members of this organization and most essential movement may, on sending their names to the secretary of the organization, Metropolitan Building, Vancouver, receive all the information necessary.

This organization will become Em-

CONVENTION PLAN

IN AUSTRALIA

Government Proposes Federal Constitution Discussion

Melbourne, Australia, Jan. 20.—(Canadian Press)—The question of amending the constitution of the Commonwealth of Australia is again to the forefront, and Premier Hughes has introduced a Bill to provide for creation of a Federal Convention to study the constitution which was adopted in 1900 and report on the various proposals for amending it. According to Mr. Hughes' plan, the Convention would consist of seventy-five members chosen by the electors of the seventy-five constituencies, eighteen members selected from the sitting members of the two Houses of the Federal Parliament, and eighteen members appointed by and from among the members of the six State Legislatures.

When the Labor Party became a power in Commonwealth politics it found that its Federal program of social legislation clashed with State rights, and it presently began an agitation to alter the Federal Constitution. Mr. Hughes, then an outstanding figure in the Labor movement, drafted the plank in the Party's platform demanding enlargement of the Commonwealth's powers.

When the Labor administration went to the country in 1913, it submitted its scheme for wider Commonwealth powers in a modified form to a referendum at the general election, and the administration as well as its constitutional proposals was defeated.

Coalition.

In 1916, Mr. Hughes, following the split in the Labor Party over conscription, formed his Nationalist Coalition Government, and, finding himself in alliance with the Liberals, who had been the chief champions of State rights, induced the new Nationalist Party to adopt, as a compromise, a plank favoring creation of a Federal Convention to examine the constitution. In the press of other matters the question of altering the Constitution was allowed to languish until the later State Labor Conference, recently held at Brisbane brought it forcibly to public attention again by unanimously adopting the following platform:

The Commonwealth Constitution to be amended to provide:

- Unlimited legislative powers for the Commonwealth Parliament and such delegated powers to States or Provinces as the Commonwealth may determine from time to time;
- Commonwealth Parliament to be vested with authority to create new States or Provinces;
- State to be abolished;
- High Court of Australia to have final jurisdiction in all Australian causes;
- Principle of adult suffrage to be embodied in the constitution;
- Initiative and referendum.

Non-Party Move.

In presenting his Bill providing for a Federal Convention Mr. Hughes said his object was to remove the question of Constitutional amendment from party politics, but his proposal involves elections through-out Australia some doubt is expressed as to whether his purpose will be achieved. When the Convention would report—and it would be given a year after its creation to do so—its recommendations must be approved by majorities in the Senate and the House of Representatives, and ratified by a referendum of the electors in all the States before they could become effective.

At present the Nationalist and Country Parties have a majority over the Labor Party, and it is considered unlikely that the proposed Convention will make any drastic changes in the Constitution.

KILLED IN FIGHT

Battle With Swordfish; Unusual Sight Near Africa

London, Jan. 21.—That the monsters of the deep fight in groups, as well as engage in encounters, is testified to by Captain G. E. Evered, a commissioner in the Gold Coast Colony, who writes the following to his brother:

"Between Sierra Leone and Sekondi we steamed for over an hour through a blood red sea and saw some hundreds of whales dead, or dying on the surface of the water. Some were just able to move slowly along, few, if any, could move quickly. There must have been a sanguinary battle, supposed to have been put up by swordfish. It was a most appalling sight and the extent of the bloody expense must have represented the death of many more whales than were visible. No one on our ship had ever seen or heard of anything approaching such a spectacle before."

Ontario Board Stopped Him Issuing Prescriptions

Toronto, Jan. 20.—Dr. Forbes Godfrey, M. P. P. for West York, has issued a writ against J. Hales, W. S. Dingman and G. T. Smith, members of the Board of Liquor Commissioners of Ontario, asking the suspension of the order by which the Commission prohibited Dr. Godfrey from issuing prescriptions for liquor as a qualified medical practitioner when necessary for the health of his patients, or in case of actual need, or when in his judgment the use of liquor is necessary in the course of his professional practice.

Dr. Godfrey also asks a declaration that the alleged suspension is invalid and unauthorized, and for a declaration that the Commission has no power to limit the prescriptions to be issued, and that Section 51-C of the Ontario Temperance Act is unauthorized and ultra vires.

BOWSER OYSTER

FILMS ALTERED

"Cowboy" Kean Tells of Injecting "Political Aspect"

Vancouver, Jan. 21.—That he had handed Dr. Baker $500 in cash in consideration for privately owned films was the statement made by Arthur D. "Cowboy" Kean at the Game Board inquiry here yesterday. He added that films depicting the oyster industry at Crescent Beach had been considerably altered to give them a political aspect, being directed against W. J. Bowser, one of the owners, who was made out to employ Hindus instead of white men.

H. W. R. Moore, counsel for R. H. Pooley, M.P.P.—How about this oyster film? Did Dr. Baker accept it as originally put in by you?

Mr. Kean—No. But he accepted it later after several scenes had been cut out. The original film showed whites were employed as well as Hindus, but this was changed so as to show only Hindus, except for the general manager.

Mr. Moore—How about the titles? Did you write those?

Mr. Kean—I drafted out a set but these were not used.

Found at Sun Office.

Mr. Moore—Who made out the titles?

Mr. Kean—I don't know. Dr. Baker told me to call at the Sun newspaper office, which I did. I found them there waiting for me.

Mr. Moore to Commissioner Shaw—I am endeavoring to show that those pictures were "butchered" to be used as a political "stunt" to discredit Mr. Bowser. Public money was used for this end and I maintain that he acted wrongfully.

Commissioner Shaw—I have tried to keep out politics as much as possible. It is obvious that this is mere political bickering, but go on if you must.

Mr. Ellis here interposed with the remark that the inquiry was becoming a farce.

Continuing, Mr. Moore inquired repeatedly who had been present at the private showing of the films before they were released for public exhibition. Mr. Kean replied that the Attorney-General had been shown them when he was up at the General Hospital. This was just before the elections of December, 1920.

Commissioner's Wish.

Mr. Kean then read out the original titles to the film as drafted out by him and as they were afterwards changed. Considerable amusement was caused by his description of training the oysters to keep their mouths closed, so that they would not die before arriving at the market.

"In thirty-six hours they learn to keep their mouths closed," he read.

Commissioner Shaw here interposed: I wish to goodness some people could do the same.

Mr. Moore—How about payment for the various films that you made for the Game Conservation Board?

Mr. Kean—I got paid at various times. I got one cheque in June for $1,123.50.

Mr. Moore—But the Government supplied the films. How about repaying them?

Mr. Kean put in a statement crediting the Government with some $700 for films which I had been given. Dr. Baker tore up this statement, saying that it was not necessary. He said I could pay for the films in cash. This I did, giving him $506.50.

The same afternoon that I received the cheque for $1,123.50. He gave me a receipt for the same, but later asked to have it returned to him. I understood that I was to be credited with some 7,500 feet of films which Dr. Baker had owned privately. Dr. Baker came to my house and asked for the receipt and I gave it to him.

A GOOD APPETITE

GREATLY DESIRED

The Occasional Use of a Tonic

Ensures a Good Appetite and Good Health.

Loss of appetite is a common trouble, and indicates that the digestive system is out of order. Lacking a healthy appetite, people go too long without food, or eat sparingly because food seems to distress them, and it is no wonder they complain of being constantly tired and unable to stand any strain. At this simply means that the digestive system is not doing its proper work, and that the nutriment that should come from the food is not being distributed to the various organs of the body. In other words, the blood is growing thin and watery. In such cases what is needed is a tonic and among all medicines there is no tonic so equal to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Take a short treatment with these pills and note how promptly your appetite returns and your power to digest food improves. The value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in cases of this kind is shown by the experience of Mrs. William Bennett, Cleland Corners, N. Y., who says: "For a long time I suffered severely from indigestion. I could hardly eat, and anything I did eat disagreed with me. The result was I became badly run down. I suffered greatly from headaches, and often passed sleepless nights. I had taken a great deal of doctor's medicine with very little benefit, and having read much about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I decided to try them. The result has met my best expectations. My digestion is now as good as ever; I sleep well at night, and have gained in flesh, and now when anyone in our family is ill this is the only medicine to take."

The best time to begin taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is the moment you feel the least bit out of sorts. The sooner you do so the sooner you will regain your old time energy. You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. (Adv.)

SQUARING AWAY.

Although the proceedings of the Coalition Liberal Convention in London have not provided anything in the nature of an election sensation the harmonious character of the gathering and the tremendous ovation accorded to the Prime Minister would seem to indicate that the little Welshman does not have to look very far for the party mechanism that may be necessary for an early appeal to the people. It was only to be expected that the various matters of international moment would absorb a goodly portion of the Prime Minister's address to-day; but there were sufficient references to domestic policy to leave it perfectly clear that when he makes up his mind he will have a co-ordinated programme and a chapter of achievements to present to the professional party campaigner and a policy "not dictated by electioneering exigencies" which will convince the average thinking man and woman that the "needs of the country and the world" as a whole demand immediate attention.

If the ultra-Unionist wing is ready to fight the Prime Minister on the Government's policy towards Ireland or in defence of a demand that the absolute veto of the House of Lords be restored Mr. Lloyd George and a strong party behind him will be ready for the fray. But it is almost inconceivable that the opponents of the Prime Minister will select such easily negotiable timber for the construction of a hostile platform. The Lords' veto is as extinct as the dodo and the "die-hards" who constituted the opposition to the Anglo-Irish Treaty would cut a sorry figure if they should still pin their faith to the terms of the Liverpool resolution in the face of public sentiment and the large volume of unspoken authority with which Mr. Lloyd George and his colleagues were endowed.

It is to be noted that the Prime Minister dropped no hint of resignation and it can be assumed that he is not ready to play into the hands of that element of the House of Commons which still begrudges the support which it gives to a leader whose political tenets they regard as anathema. On the other hand his immediate task is one of reconciliation. To what extent the Coalitionist-Liberal and the Coalitionist-Conservative are prepared to co-operate under Mr. Lloyd George remains to be seen. Labor is a doubtful quantity and the Independent Liberals under Mr. Asquith's leadership cannot be ignored under a new alignment. It will be interesting to see how a National-Liberal Council will appeal to the various Liberal elements and whether the more moderate Coalitionist-Conservative could bring himself to serve under that name with the promise of being on the winning side with Mr. Lloyd George.

HON. E. L. WETMORE.

In the death of the Hon. E. L. Wetmore, which occurred here yesterday, Canada has lost one whose notable services in various public capacities covered many years. He was prominently identified with civic and provincial political life in New Brunswick before coming West and was leader of the Opposition during the Premiership of the Hon. A. G. Blair. Thirty-seven years ago he was appointed Chief Justice of the Northwest Territories, afterwards becoming Chief Justice of Saskatchewan. He was an able jurist, a man of broad culture and was highly esteemed throughout the country.

BRITAIN'S FREE TRADE.

Those indefatigable workers who endeavored to convince the electorate of Canada that the British Government had commenced a rapid slide towards a wholesale policy of protection will be able to recognize just how far free trade principles have been dropped after they have digested the solemn declaration which Sir Gordon Hewart—the Attorney-General of the Lloyd George Cabinet—made at the Coalition Liberal Conference in London yesterday. He informed his audience that the Government stood uncompromisingly for free trade and he did not think that the Safeguarding of Industries Act was a bright example of recent legislation. This was the measure that the Meighen press and candidates selected as a proof that Great Britain had undergone a "revolution in the fiscal policy of the country" which one contemporary declared "must have been brought about by the consent of the nation as a whole." We took occasion to point out on more than one occasion that the Anti-Dumping bill was just what the President of the Board of Trade declared it to be when he introduced it in the House of Commons—a temporary measure to safeguard nine industries whose German monopoly British manufacturers were endeavoring to break. The Canadian electorate knew that too.

SAANICH ELECTION.

One of our correspondents has suggested that since it is necessary to hold a new election in Saanich there should be common consent to refrain from opposing those whose return at the invalid contest obviously reflected the choice of the people. We have already taken the stand that expenditure could be avoided and the will of the electorate respected were this course to be followed. If six months had elapsed and some issue had intervened opposition might be an advantage to the interests of the municipality; but such is not the case.

WELL ADVISED.

Public opinion and his own supporters will approve the action of Mr. Armstrong in withdrawing from the contest at North York. Doing away with the necessity for an election in any of the ridings represented by the Prime Minister or his colleagues leaves the field clear for them to get down to the discussion of the many important questions with which the new Parliament will have to concern itself. It is only reasonable to assume that Dr. King's acceptance of the portfolio of Public Works in the Federal Cabinet will not be made the occasion of a contest in this Province.

FRUIT ZONE INSURANCE.

If the codling moth and numerous other pests to which the agricultural world is constantly exposed could be eradicated by a stipulated formula the trials and tribulations of many a diligent orchardist would be very considerably minimized. But there is small likelihood that the fruitgrowers of British Columbia will be able to look forward to any such scientific development for a long time to come. In the meantime this highly important industry is faced with the necessity to adopt ways and means by which the annual loss from these causes shall fall less heavily upon the innocent and powerless victim.

Premier Oliver suggests—and the plan appears to be reasonable and practical—that the growers of the Province undertake to divide the fruit growing districts into zones in order that each zone might assess its members at the end of a fruit season and divide the loss which one or more growers might have sustained. In other words he would substitute the present system of insurance for a policy that would follow similar lines to the Workmen's Compensation Act. That is to say he would create a divisible fund at the end of the season that would actually represent the loss sustained by the zone from the causes insured against.

It should not be a difficult matter to put a scheme of this sort into operation. Even if there should be as many as five or six orchards in any one zone attacked by the codling moth or similar pests the assessment of zone members would probably be considerably less than would be paid out in the ordinary form of insurance premium. It can also be assumed that development would by no means suffer if an adequate protection against unavoidable loss were assured.

A HEALTHY CITY.

Although there is nothing of a spectacular nature in the work of a civic health officer the average individual will find material for congratulation in the fact that last year was one of the healthiest in the history of the city. Dr. Price does not intend that his preliminary announcement relating to health statistics for 1921 should over-estimate the value of certain fundamental policies which his department has rigorously followed during the period in question; but his reference to the removal of breeding places of disease indicates that the simple part of his duties are highly important. It is gratifying to observe that the happy hunting grounds of the common house fly have been appropriately dealt with by the department and it may be said that the city might derive still additional benefits from an even more systematic process of tidying-up. There are still a number of vacant lots that would look a great deal better and constitute less of a menace to public health were they to be treated to a wholesome shampoo. And, in view of Dr. Price's prediction that even healthy Victoria may not escape something of the influenza backwash, would it not be a good idea to use a few yards of hose and plenty of water on the more congested streets of the city during the dry Spring nights when dust and refuse accumulations impose their own germ-laden atmosphere upon an unsuspecting public? We are advised that much of a species of recurrent abdominal "flu" is traceable to this apparently harmless condition. That is to say a rainy day in Victoria removes much of a common danger from city gutters. The street washing process is a part of municipal business in all the large cities and it would not cost a great deal to turn the hose on the few blocks in Victoria where unhealthy accumulations are sometimes obvious to the naked eye.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Police Commission has been holding secret meetings. We thought public sessions were to be the order. We fear the new Board is becoming reactionary—a sad commentary on His Worship's expressed zeal for democracy.

The Toronto Globe's estimate of Canada's population is 8,714,000, based on the assumption that the populations of Saskatchewan and British Columbia respectively are 745,010 and 490,600. This looks like an underestimate of British Columbia's population although evidently the figure is going to disappoint us.

If Mr. Pooley shall go to China or Timbuctoo in pursuance of his threat will he take with him his colonel friend who, he told us in the Legislature, was victimized by the Government liquor vendors when the brandy he purchased would not burn when a lighted match was set to it? Mr. Pooley's grievance is that the Liberals are in office; surely this is a small provocation in comparison with the colonel's. What is the country coming to when brandy will not burn, especially at Christmas time?

When immigration into Western Canada is resumed in its former large volume, and the inevitable economic rebound takes place, it will be interesting to see how far some of the present advocates of stringent economy will adhere to their gospel. Experience so far has shown that in boom times they become extreme boomsters who demand all sorts of extravagant expenditures without regard to ultimate consequences. It might be a good thing for our Legislature to adopt such measures now as will prevent any recurrence of the disastrous inflation which developed ten years ago.

INDIAN ASSEMBLY DECLARES ORDER MUST BE UPHOLD

London, Jan. 21.—The Legislative Assembly of India yesterday rejected a resolution recommending abandonment of the Government's policy of repression," cables Reuters' correspondent at Delhi.

PNEUMONIA CAUSED THE DEATH TO-DAY OF POPE BENEDICT XV.

apartment in case of death of the Pontiff and to act as marshal of the conclaves.

Professor Battistini examined the Pope again at 12.30 p. m. and on leaving the room declared the situation the gravest, the Pontiff's condition, he said, being hopeless.

Prayers.

The only hope remaining, said Monsignor Pizzardo, Under-Secretary of State, in the presence of a company of prelates and diplomats, lay in the prayers "that we and all the faithful throughout the world offer for the recovery of the Holy Father."

"As to human science," he added, "it has exhausted its resources."

About 11 o'clock Pope Benedict, on seeing Monsignor Nasalli Rocca, on seeing Monsignor Archibugi, where the Pope formerly resided, entered into conversation with him and also with Bishop Menzani, the Bishop of Piacenza, speaking just as if giving a regular audience.

Bulletin at 5.30 p. m.

Rome, Jan. 21.—5.30 p. m.—A bulletin issued at this hour says: "The state of the holy father became worse during the day. The respiration more and more painful and difficult and the heart continuously weaker."

The bulletin was signed by Doctors Marchisiani, Battistini and Bigami. In a slight delirium during the noon hour the Pontiff resisted the efforts of the physicians to listen to his heart action and expressed a desire to rise and perform his usual duties.

At 5.18 p. m.

Rome, Jan. 21.—5.18 p. m.—At 5.18 o'clock this afternoon Cardinal Gasparri, Papal Secretary of State, said: "The catastrophe is imminent," indicating Pope Benedict's end was near.

Not informed.

Ottawa, Jan. 21.—Up to 2 p. m. Monsignor di Maria, the Papal Delegate here, had received no official notification of Pope Benedict's death.

POPE'S VOICE WAS RAISED FOR PEACE

sage from the Pope in which he intimated that the United States might volunteer to conciliate the European belligerents. The note came at a time when the United States and Germany were in the midst of a diplomatic crisis and Mr. Wilson, in his reply, did not respond to the Pontiff's suggestions for bringing about peace.

The next communication from the Vatican to the White House came on January 16, 1917, and contained the approval by Benedict of the President's peace note. Three months later the United States herself had resorted to the arbitrament of arms and entered the struggle on the side of the Allies.

On August 8, 1917, still hopeful of saving the world from a veritable cataclysm, Pope Benedict issued in his own handwriting his famous appeal to the nations, exhorting the belligerents to end the war for sake of humanity.

In September, 1918, the Vatican finally announced it would take steps toward bringing about peace only when invited to do so by both groups of belligerents.

A Protest.

Pained by the shelling of Paris by the German long range guns in the Spring of 1918, Pope Benedict sent a protest to Emperor Charles of Austria and to the Berlin Government against what he characterized as "a wanton massacre."

The Pope's gratification over the capture of Jerusalem by the Allies under the British General Allenby caused bitter comment in the German press. According to the Rome Messenger on December 18, 1917, a few days after the fall of the Holy City, he warned Christian states against aiding the Turks in recapturing it.

Pope Benedict's attitude toward the Peace Conference of 1919 was said to have been one of fatherly solicitude.

Lived Simply.

While the people of every land were suffering in some form the rigors of war, the Pope personally observed all the rules for food conservation formulated by the Italian authorities and with his own hand ordered the Vatican on food card rationing which continued until the end of the conflict.

Always abstemious in eating and drinking, Benedict XV. observed even greater simplicity at the table during the troublous days of his pontificate. Visitors have said that he lived as plainly as the poorest contributors of Peter's Pence.

Born in 1854.

Giacomo della Chiesa, the spiritual head of 300,000,000 Roman Catholics, was born of noble lineage at Pegli, Italy, on November 21, 1854. His father was the Marchese della Chiesa (pronounced Keeza).

He received his education at the Caproni College and later attended the Academy of Ecclesiastics. Ordained to the priesthood in 1878, he soon attracted the attention of Cardinal Rampolla, who under Pope XIII. was the Papal Secretary of State. He accompanied Rampolla to Madrid in 1883 when his patron was Nuncio, remaining there until 1887, when he returned to Rome upon the elevation of Rampolla to the Cardinalate.

In 1901, after having served four years as Secretary of the Nunciature in Spain, he was appointed Secretary of the Cyrenaica. This position gave its incumbent considerable authority and the same year Mr. della Chiesa was named as Consul of the Holy Office.

A notable promotion came to him on December 16, 1907, when Pope Pius X. appointed della Chiesa as Archbishop of the important See of Bologna to succeed the late Cardinal Svampa.

A Cardinal.

Archbishop della Chiesa was made a Cardinal in May, 1914, less than six months before mounting the throne of St. Peter.

He took his ecclesiastical title from Pope Benedict XIV., one of the ablest Pontiffs of the Church, who was born in Bologna March 31, 1675, and died May 2, 1758.

Benedict XV's personal appearance has been described as follows: "A man physically ill-favored but gifted with great intelligence; short of stature, aesthetically thin, with the right shoulder raised above the left, and giving one the impression of extreme nervousness and weakness. But when he raised his head the visitors instinctively felt that they were in the presence of a man equipped with exceptional intellectual powers."

and energy. He reminded one of the noted poet Leopardi. With an ample brow, surrounded by coal black hair, large eyes, lively and penetrating, a large mouth with thin lips full of expression, the Pope conveyed the impression of a man of few friendships, but these most sincere, devoted and lasting."

Most Generous.

Always "a friend in need," as a prelate of his church once said of him, Pope Benedict demonstrated his readiness to avert hardship to poor people by advancing $1,000,000 to save a financial institution of Rome from bankruptcy in the Spring of 1918. This was in keeping with his reputation from the time he was ordained a priest in 1878 to the day of his death. When he was made a Cardinal it was with difficulty that he was able to meet the expenses necessary to one in such a high office and this was because up to that time he had given his entire income to impoverished townfolk.

"THAT CANTEN FUND."

To the Editor:—In your editorial under the heading "That Canteen Fund," in your issue of Thursday, you stated that it was not surprising to discover that out of something like 400,000 former members of the C. E. F., only 20,000 had taken the trouble to vote upon the manner in which these funds should be distributed, and you no doubt rightly attributed the lack of interest shown to the "lack of intelligent consideration" in ever having such questions put before the returned men and women.

Thus far, Mr. Editor, I agree with you, but I beg to differ with you as to the most practical use to which the money could be put.

Your assertion that the fund could be put to no better use than to be transferred in bulk to the Red Cross Society of Canada in order that it might be enabled to extend its work among that virtually helpless element for whom pension and reconstruction legislation does not adequately provide, brings us back to the same problem that faced us when we first looked at the questionnaire.

The returned men were asked on the questionnaire to express opinions as to the best of several ways of disposing of these funds, but the suggestions given were questions which the Federal Government ought already to have made provision for and which, to the mind of the average returned man, had nothing whatever to do with the disposal of funds which belong not to the Government, but to the men, and your proposal Mr. Editor to my mind comes in identically the same category, in that you suggest that these funds be used for a purpose for which the Federal Government should already have made provision.

Might I suggest that the best use to which the money could be put would be to lend it, at a very nominal rate of interest, to the men to whom it rightly belongs, in order to assist them to build homes or to assist them in business enterprises, in sums ranging from $200 to $2,000, and repayable at stated interest?

Machinery to administer the fund in this way is already in existence in the shape of the much maligned S. C. R., so that it would not be necessary to create any administrative staff at salaries that would soon eat away the two million. In this way the returned man who is not a farmer would be able to get assistance in much the same way as the farmer does under the S. S. B.

The fund would thus be able to do a vast amount of good for many years to come, and the rate of interest charged need not be more than 2 1/2 percent or 3 percent, to a vast number whom no re-establishment scheme has as yet made any provision for.

As an instance we will take the case of a man who wants to buy a house adequate to his needs and has the opportunity to do so for $2,000. The existing Housing Scheme does not help him and there is no other scheme of a like nature whereby he can borrow the money needed, where as were such a scheme in force he could borrow what he required and repay it as rent, the house being security.

No, Mr. Editor, let the Government do its own share and try to reduce some of its war time promises, but leave the canteen funds to benefit the greater number who helped to create them.

ST. DAVID'S DAY LUNCHEON SET

Cymrodorion Society Makes Plans For Spring

The executive of the Cymrodorion Society met Thursday evening at the home of President A. Petch, 1904 Davis Street, to transact the business of the society.

It was decided that the president's lecture, historical and illustrated, be given on Wednesday evening, February 8, and that the ordinary meeting of the society be dispensed with on that night. Due notice will be given to the place where the lecture will be held. This lecture will be given to the general public.

It takes the form of a tour through Wales, north and south, and Mr.

Petch who was born and resided in The Principality for forty years, and travelled extensively through the greater part of the country, can give a very descriptive history of the country and its people. He has a collection of about 150 slides of the most interesting and beautiful part of that lovely country.

The St. David's Day Committee also met the same evening at the same place and decided to hold a St. David's Day luncheon at one of the hotels of the city, most probably at the Dominion Hotel, for men only, if suitable arrangements can be made.

They decided that a miscellaneous entertainment be held on the evening of the same day at one of the halls. Due notice will be given of the time and place. This meeting will also be like a miscellaneous entertainment. Welsh people are specially invited as this should be a bumper meeting.

Vassar College in its $3,000,000 endowment drive has registered three students for entrance in the class of 1923. These prospective students are all infants and children of Vassar alumnae.

THE STORY OF CAROL KENNICOTT

By SINCLAIR LEWIS

By enlisting and draft, the sons of Lyman Cass, Nat Hicks, Sam Clark joined the army. But most of the soldiers were the sons of German and Swedish farmers unknown to Carol. Dr. Terry Gould and Dr. McGannum became captains in the medical corps, and were stationed at camps in Iowa and Georgia. They were the only officers, besides Rymie, from the Gopher Prairie district. Kennicott wanted to go with them, but the several doctors of the town forgot medical rivalry and, meeting in council, decided that he would do better to wait and keep the town well till he should be needed. Kennicott was forty-two now; the only youngish doctor left in a radius of eighteen miles. Old Dr. Westlake, who loved comfort like a cat, protestingly rolled out at night for country calls, and hunted through his collar-box for his G. A. R. button.

Carol did not quite know what she thought about Kennicott going. Certainly she was no Spartan wife. She knew that he wanted to go; she knew that this longing was always in him, behind his unchanged trudging and remarks about the weather. She felt for him an admiring affection—and she was sorry that she had nothing more than affection.

Cy Bogart was the spectacular warrior of the town. Cy was no longer the weedy boy who had had in the left speculation about Carol's egotism and the mysteries of generation. He was nineteen now, tall, broad, busy, the "town sport," famous for his ability to drink beer, to shake dice, to tell undesirable stories, and from his post in front of Dyer's drug store, to embarrass the girls by "joking" them as they passed. His face was at once peach-bloomed and pimply.

Cy was to be heard publishing it abroad that if he couldn't get the Widow Bogart's permission to enlist, he'd run away and enlist without it. He shouted that he "hated every dirty Hun; by gosh, if he could just put a bayonet into one big fat Hunie and learn him some decency and democracy, he'd die happy." Cy got much reputation by whipping a farm-boy named Adolph Pochbauer for being a "damn hyphenated German."

..... This was the younger Pochbauer, who was killed in the Argonne while he was trying to bring the body of his Tankie captain back to the lines. At this time Cy Bogart was still dwelling in Gopher Prairie and planning to go to war.

Everywhere Carol heard that the war was going to bring a basic change in psychology, to purify and uplift everything from marital relations to national politics, and she tried to suit in it. Only she did not find it. She saw the women who made bandages for the Red Cross giving up bridge, and laughing at having to do without sugar, but over the social dressings they did not speak of God and the souls of men, but of Miles Bjornstam's impudence, of Terry Gould's scandalous carrying on with a farmer's daughter four years ago, of cooking cabbage, and of altering blouses. Their references to the war touched atrocities only. She herself was punctual, and efficient at making dressings, but she could not, like Mrs. Lyman Cass and Mrs. Bogart, fill the dressings with hate for enemies.

When she protested to Vida, "The young-do do the work while these old ones sit around and interrupt us and gag with hate because they're too feeble to do as much as we," then Vida turned on her:

"If you can't be reverent, at least don't be so pert and opinionated, now when men and women are dying. Some of us—we have given up so much, and we're glad to. At least we expect that you others shan't try to be witty at our expense."

There was weeping. Carol did desire to see the Prussian autocracy defeated; she did persuade herself that there were no autocracies save that of Prussia; she did thrill to motion pictures of troops embarking in New York; and she was uncomfortable when she met Miles Bjornstam on the street and he croaked:

"Eow's tricks? Things going fine with me; got two new cows. Well, have you become a patriot? Eh? Sure, they'll bring democracy—the democracy of death. Yes, sure, in every war since the Garden of Eden the workmen have gone out to fight each other for perfectly good reasons—handed to them by their bosses. Now me, I'm wise, in so wise that I know I don't know anything about the war."

It was not a thought of the war that remained with her after Miles's declaration but a perception that she and Vida and all of the good-intentioners who wanted to "do something for the common people were insufficient, because the "common people" were able to do things for themselves, and highly likely to, as soon as they learned the fact. The conception of millions of workmen like Miles taking control frightened her, and she scuttled rapidly away from the thought of a time when she might no longer retain the position of Lady Bountiful to the Bjornstams and Beas and Oconarins whom she loved—and patronized.

All the midsummer month Carol was sensitive to Kennicott. She recalled his hundred grotesque comical dismay at his having chewed tobacco, the evening when she had tried to read poetry to him; matters which had seemed to vanish with no trace or sequence. Always she repeated that he had been heroically patient in his desire to join the army. She made much of her consoling affection for him in little things. She liked the homeliness of his tinkering about the house; his strength and hardness as he tightened the hinges of a shutter; his boldness when he ran to her to be comforted because he had found rust in the barrel of his pump-gun. But at the highest he was to her a little thing, a thing on the glamor of Hugh's unknown future.

There was, late in June, a day of heat-lightning. Because of the work imposed by the absence of the other doctors the Kennicotts had not moved to the lake cottage but remained in town, dusty and irritable. In the afternoon when she went to Oleson & McGulre's (formerly Dahl & Oleson's), Carol was vexed by the assumption of the beautiful clerk, recently come from the farm, that he had to be neighborly and rude. He was no more brusquely familiar than a dozen other clerks of the town, but her nerves were heat-scorched.

When she asked for codfish, for supper, he grunted, "What d'you want that darned old dry stuff for?"

"Like it?"

"Punk! Guess the doc can afford something better than that. Try some of the new wiensies we got in. Swell. The Haydocks use 'em."

She exploded. "My dear young man, it is not your duty to instruct me in housekeeping, and it doesn't particularly concern me what the Haydocks condescend to approve!"

He was hurt. He hastily wrapped up the leprous fragment of fish; he gaped as she trailed out. She lamented, "I shouldn't have spoken so. He didn't mean anything. He doesn't know when he is being rude."

Her repentance was not proof against Uncle Whittier when she stopped in at his grocery for salt and a package of safety matches. Uncle Whittier, in a shirt, collarless and soaked with sweat in a brown streak down his back, was whining at a clerk, "Come on now, get a hustle going with that putty! The whole town is looking at you in the neck to me. May be decent and modest—I suppose I'm old-fashioned—but I never thought much of showing the whole town a woman's bust! Hee! hee! hee! Afternoon Mrs. Hicks. Sage? Just out of it. Lemme show you some other spices, Heh?"

Uncle Whittier was usually indignant. "Certainly! Got plenty other spices just good as sage for any purpose whatever! What's the matter with—well, with allspice? When Mrs. Hicks had gone, he raged. "Some folks don't know what they want!" "Sweating sanctimonious bully!" my husband's uncle thought. Carol. She crept into Dave Dyer's. Dave held up his arms with, "Don't shoot! I surrender." She smiled, but it occurred to her that she was not sure years Dave had kept up this game of pretending that she threatened his life.

EXPECTS BOARD TO BE FRIENDLY

"As a matter of fact the Lord's Day Act is no more a religious law than the traffic law, and indeed it is very much like the traffic law. It does not make very much difference whether we turn to the right or turn to the left, so long as we have a rule of the road. It is much the same with the Lord's Day Act.

Need Not Be Religious.

"The State legislates that man shall have one day's rest in seven, founded on divine law coming down from all ages. The State recognizes that man is so constituted that he requires that day of rest in the week, and we cannot all choose what day we will rest, so the State fixes Sunday, as a day of rest, but it does not say that men shall be religious on that day.

"The Seventh Day Adventists have been carrying on propaganda in which they tried to make out that the Lord's Day Act was state interference with a matter of conscience.

"Day of Freedom."

"It is no such interference but just a day of appointed rest. It does not forbid entertainment or play, but it says that your play shall not cause others to work. The Lord's Day Act, in short, simply seeks to conserve the Sabbath as a day of rest and freedom.

The other reference to these matters that I saw in the local papers was that a deputization had waited on your board of police commissioners yesterday, I think, to ask for fair play, and urging that drug stores be not allowed to carry on business that was denied to other stores. Now that is a very serious element of this question."

The speaker here gave his experience with the deputization on Sunday in the cities of Calgary and Lethbridge, which he stated, had become such a menace that the respective boards of trustees of these cities had waited on the councils to have the latter take action under the Lord's Day Act.

"So I was very glad indeed to see that some retailers in this city had voluntarily taken action on this matter," Dr. Huestis added.

"Christian Folk."

"There is a growing tendency today to make the Sabbath a day of amusement and Sunday a holiday, and we can only meet that by emphasizing the Sunday as God's day and His day of worship. All hope for our nation in the future lies in guarding Sunday as a day of spiritual opportunity for the soul of man," he went on.

Chairman Explains.

Dr. Clay rose at the conclusion of the address by Dr. Huestis to explain the attitude of the Mayor on these matters: "I am in close personal contact with the Mayor," he stated, "and I know that his views are nearly identical with those of Dr. Huestis. The Mayor is a thorough democrat, and it is in the interests of the great mass of people that he wishes to keep the Sabbath day as a day of rest."

"This horrible phrase 'Blue Sunday' which is a mere invention of the press, occasioned those remarks, and it was in combating that impression, that there would be a 'Blue Sunday' that he spoke of closing up active business on Sunday, due to his regard to the mass of the workers."

Dr. Rochester Speaks.

Dr. Rochester, general secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance in Canada, addressed the gathering.

"I wish to express my congratulations to the city of Victoria that someone has been placed in the highest civic chair from whom we can expect much. It is a splendid message of hope, at a time and in a city where it was never more needed. If that message from the present occupant of that chair becomes an established standard, then it is a wonderful message of hope."

"Willful Perversion."

Dr. Rochester dealt with what he termed "willful perversion" of the meaning of the Lord's Day Act which he laid to the doors of those who "were unwilling or incapable of understanding the truth."

"True patriotism cannot express itself better," he continued, "than in the proper keeping of the Lord's Day. The Lord's Day Alliance is quite as much misunderstood as the Lord's Day Act, and for the very same reasons."

"The People's Champion."

"Just as the Lord's Day is the people's charter for one day of rest in seven, so the Lord's Day Alliance is the champion of that charter. The Lord's Day Alliance was established over twenty-five years ago, and no organization in that time has justified itself more fully, in what it is, and in what it has done."

Dr. Rochester here dealt with the history of Sabbath legislation in Canada, which he attributed as solely due to the activities of the Lord's Day Alliance.

In speaking of Sunday amusement, resumed the speaker, "in the United States the motion picture business has pretty nearly captured the Sabbath. The motion picture people are a solid army on this point, and they wish to get in, law or no law."

"Not Innocent As Looks."

"Even the seemingly innocent Sunday concert is not as innocent as it looks. The motion picture people say 'Here is an opening for us to come in later, and there is a very grave danger of people coming to accept this attitude. I cannot commend the work of this organization too strongly to you, for it is a great task."

"Six years were necessary to get the Sunday foreign newspaper out of a certain city in the East. Dr. Huestis has just reported that the police are now trying to get the Sunday foreign newspaper out of Vancouver. The virtue of this organization lies in its single aim, and all its efforts should be bent in that direction," Dr. Rochester added.

General Discussion.

"Has the Sunday Sun been sold on Vancouver streets lately?" the Rev. William Stevenson wished to know, when the time for discussion came.

"No Sunday newspapers have been so sold since early in the summer, when I found some Seattle Sunday papers being sold and I informed the police in Vancouver. They thanked me and put a stop to it then and there," explained Dr. Huestis.

"The Sunday Sun is still delivered to its subscribers but it stopped its street sale voluntarily after the pressure was brought to bear," stated Dr. Rochester.

"The Sun is on sale here on Sunday morning, for I have seen a boy going around with it and calling it out," supplemented Dr. Clay.

"I have sometimes seen a Seattle P.-I. here on Sundays, too," added the Rev. A. de B. Owen.

Band Concerts.

At this stage of the discussion J. R. Bunn referred to the minutes of the last annual meeting where a committee had been appointed to investigate the Sunday band concert issue and make a report on having such stopped. "Why does not the committee report, has it failed?" queried the member.

"Well I had a conference with the G. W. A., explained Dr. Huestis, "and all we could do was to use moral suasion, our hands were tied, as the city would not take any action."

"Were the Sunday concerts illegal?" continued Dr. Bunn.

"Concerts illegal."

"That of course is a matter for the courts to decide, but I have no doubt at all that they were," explained Dr. Huestis, quoting from the Lord's Day Act in respect to performances where a fee was charged for admission or privilege.

"Cannot we take action and hire a lawyer? It is a disgrace to the city," persisted Mr. Bunn.

Suggest Delegation.

"I move we send a delegation to the police commission and ask for a complete enforcement of the law. Most of us have confidence in the commissioners, and we have now the finest opportunity of carrying out the Lord's Day Act. We could approach the commission, of course, in a friendly way, to let us people see that the Alliance is alive, and that we are minding our own business."

"With regard to the stores and the Sunday papers, we owe it as a friendly warning to let us people see that the Alliance is alive, and that we are protesting against the drug stores to back them up in their protest against unfair competition."

Last Year's Board.

year was urged twice or three times by letter and resolution, but they took no action," stated Dr. Huestis. "They said, rather, that the city solicitor had stated that the city council were not against the law. Now with the new commission I would say that it was the duty of this body to take the matter up again, de novo, with the new commission."

"In a Flurry."

"The Ministerial Association was in a flurry several times last year over the entertainments and goings-on at the Gorge," interjected the Rev. A. de B. Owen. "I was surprised at what was going on there, much worse than Sunday concerts; and they advertised special attractions for Sunday," he continued giving in detail the activities of the "Aunt Sallies" and other booths which he classed as "straight gambling."

"Vaudeville a Disgrace."

"Citizens who I know attend church I have seen at the Gorge on Sundays," said Mrs. J. Shampney. "They listened for two hours to a vaudeville show there that was a disgrace. They made a collection, and came around a second time for money, and I was surprised at what I saw, and I tell you that you have no idea of the danger that our children are exposed to at the Gorge."

Is City Culpable?

"I understand that the city has been in the habit of giving money for Sunday band concerts at Beacon Hill Park," added another.

The matter was finally referred to the executive for full investigation and report. Before adjourning the meeting discussed very briefly the operation of the Chinese merchants of the city on Sunday, one stating that the partitions which were put up between grocery and candy departments in the same store were merely as a disguise. This matter, along with Sunday band concerts, Sunday newspapers and other matters were all referred to the executive committee for investigation, with the recommendation that laymen be attached to the investigating committee.

HOLD QUARTERLY MEETING OF SOCIETY

Anti-Vivisection Movement Is Growing in Victoria

The quarterly meeting of the Humane Education and Anti-Vivisection Society in Canada, was held last night in the Orange Hall, and was well attended, despite the inclement weather.

In the absence of President Paul Borradaile, the chair was occupied by W. B. Pease.

The secretary read the minutes of the last meeting, and commented upon the steady growth of the organization which was the first of its kind to be formed in this Dominion. Messages of sympathy and many congratulations have been received from all parts of England, Canada, America and from France, the undertaking being endorsed by many prominent medical men and well-known leaders in the cause elsewhere. During the past week Mr. George Arliss, the celebrated actor, has forwarded his congratulations and a donation to the local society of which he is a member.

Genesis of Movement.

Mrs. Vivien gave a most instructive address on "The Rise of the Anti-Vivisection Movement," sketching the growth of the reform from the time that Miss Frances Power Cobbe exposed the cruelties of Continental Europe and founded the first society in 1875. This was built up by the 7th Earl of Shaftesbury, who was the first president of the first society, with Lord Chief Justice Coleridge, Cardinal Manning, Robert Browning, Alfred Tennyson and Thomas Carlyle as its vice-presidents. The movement was supported by the most brilliant thinkers and writers of the age, and it was shown that it has increased ever since, in every part of the civilized world.

William Stevenson gave a clear and comprehensive address on showing that exploitation of the weak and defenceless was contrary to religion.

"The Religious and Moral Aspects of Vivisection,"

Amongst those joining in a general discussion were S. T. Hankey, S. Bruce, D. Leeming, A. McCloy, W. Pease and Miss Walsh.

Local members will be glad to note that the president, Mr. Borradaile has recently spoken before the Anti-Vivisection Society of Los Angeles, which is a most progressive and powerful organization.

Motion of Congratulation.

In view of the refusal of Governor Percival P. Baxter, of Maine, to change his position and go over to the vivisection party, the following resolution was proposed and unanimously carried: "That this meeting desires to convey to Percival P. Baxter, Governor of Maine, U. S. A., its sincere appreciation of his splendid stand against vivisection."

The musical entertainment was provided by the following friends, to whom the society is greatly indebted for assistance: Mrs. Hamlet, Miss Wyles and Mr. McCloy.

Many new members were enrolled at the meeting, and great interest was displayed by all present.

Refreshments were served at the close of the evening by the W. A. of the society and friends, Mrs. Henry Crane being the able convenor.

MUSICAL PUPILS WIN HIGH MARKS

Madame Webb's Pupils Gain High Place

Madame Kate Webb entered thirty-six pupils in the November harmony and theory examinations of the Associated Board of the Royal Academy and Royal College of Music, London, England. ## CAPT. BERT SHADFORTH JOINS NEW PILOTAGE

Capt. Bert Shadforth, pilot of the C. P. R. steamship Princess Maquina, has become associated, it is understood, with the new pilotage organization formed by Capt. H. L. Robertson and John H. Johnson. Capt. Percy Shadforth, who is a member of the B. C. Pilotage Association, was inadvertently mentioned in the Victoria Times as being joining the new pilotage body. Capt. Bert Shadforth is a brother of Capt. Percy Shadforth. The latter has just returned to port after piloting the S. S. Canadian Winner to Port Alberni.

FINE PROGRAMME FOR BURNS CONCERT

January 25 will be the 163rd anniversary of the birth of Scotland's immortal bard. The Knights of the Thistle have arranged a real Burns night for their third celebration. Sir Knight T. Alexander will start the proceedings, introducing the chairman of the evening, A. McCloy. Bagpipe selections by Pipe-Major Wallace will be a feature. J. G. Brown will speak on Burns, introducing illustrated scenes and songs as follows:

Song, "Whistle and I'll Come to Ye," Miss Ida Taylor; violin selection, "Scottish Airs," R. B. Law; song, "My Wee Auld Fashioned Hoose," Mrs. S. M. Morton; song, "There Was a Lad Was Born in Kyle," D. Ogilvy; song, "Corn Rigs Are Bonnie O' Mine," Mrs. Jean Wallace; song, "Mary Morrison," J. Graham; song, "John Anderson My Jo," Mrs. M. ### Exorbitant Harbor Dues at Vancouver Delayed Advent of New Boat

The luxurious appointments of the new coastwise liner Princess Louise will be available to the travelling public on Tuesday when the new boat will be pressed into service for the first time since her completion. The Princess Louise, it was announced to-day by Capt. C. D. Nerouga, marine superintendent, B. C. Coast Steamship Service, and director of steamship traffic in the office of Capt. J. W. Troup in the Orient, will take the midnight sailing on Tuesday, January 24, after getting "acquainted" with the Gulf run, the Princess Louise will be operated as relief boat in the triangular service between Victoria, Vancouver and Seattle.

Exclusive Harbor Dues.
It was the original intention of the Canadian Pacific Company to complete the Princess Louise in time for the Christmas trade between Victoria and Vancouver, but, according to Capt. Nerouga, the harbor dues at Vancouver are so "appalling" heavy that it was decided to defer the completion of the work until the beginning of the year. It was not considered worth while to pay the exorbitant Vancouver harbor dues for the closing days of the old year. The harbor dues at Vancouver, says Capt. Nerouga, amount to 5 cents per net ton five times per year, as compared with 2 1/2 cents per ton at Seattle. The customs overtime charges at Seattle are unreasonable, but in the matter of harbor dues, the ports of Victoria and Seattle are very reasonable when compared with Vancouver.

To Alaska June 9.
The Princess Louise will continue to ply as relief vessel in the Gulf and Triangular service until June, when she will be operated in the Alaska service.

The new boat is scheduled to sail on Saturday on her maiden trip North on June 9.

ST. SAVIOUR'S GIRLS SCORE FINE VICTORY

The High School gymnasium was the scene of a very close game last night in the Victoria Ladies Basketball League between the "High" junior team and St. Saviour's. The St. Saviour's girls surprised their supporters by carrying off the honors by 7-2. Their team has been very unfortunate as several of their players have had to withdraw on account of sickness and they have just secured the services of Jessie Ligertwood, forwards; Audrey Griffin and Viola Whitmer and Francis Andrews.

The teams lined up as follows: St. Saviour's—Guards, Emily Anderson, Mildred Grant; centre, Jessie Ligertwood; forwards, Audrey Griffin and Viola Whitmer and Francis Andrews.

Victoria High School Junior—Guards, Dorothy Bassett and Jessie Stuart; centre, Jeannette MacQueen; forwards, Kathleen Wellburn and Blossom Barnett.

IRISH PORTS WILL BE SERVED BY BOATS FROM PACIFIC COAST

Seattle, Jan. 21.—With the North European service out of Pacific Coast ports now firmly established by the American-Hawaiian Steamship Company, a subsidiary of the United American Lines, it is proposed to soon include the port of Cork, Ireland, the harbor entry to Dublin, as a regular port of call for this service.

By way of initiating the service, the American-Hawaiian Line is considering the sending of the steamship Ohlsson, which is to be on berth here about February 10, to the Irish port, which, if followed out, will mark the first call of a privately operated line ship to Irish ports from the Pacific Coast in many years.

In the European service of the same company, the steamship Mexican, which has been picking up cargo at various Puget sound and British Columbia ports during the past few days, is expected to clear for North Europe Monday.

Memnon Soon Due.
The Blue Funnel freighter Memnon reached San Francisco yesterday from ports in the United Kingdom. She is now expected here about next Wednesday.

Mr. Wm. Christie, the representative of the Ship Chandlers, Ltd., left yesterday by the Canadian Skirmisher for Australia. Mr. Christie expects to be away four months.

FURS OF PRIBILOFS BRING GOOD REVENUE

Profitable Industry Being Built Up in North With Seal Herds

Seattle, Jan. 21.—The Federal Government derived gross proceeds of $796,102 from the fur industry of the Pribilof Islands during the fiscal year of 1921. The net proceeds were $453,400.82. These figures have been received by the Seattle Chamber of Commerce through its Alaska Bureau from the United States Department of Fisheries, Washington, D.C.

Sealings brought $342,701.29 and fox pelts $80,690. Indicating how Government supervision is building up the sealing industry, the report to the Chamber says in part: "Sealings secured in 1920 numbered 25,648, practically all from animals three and four years old. The number taken in 1921 through the regular killing season ended on August 25 was 22,546, chiefly from the seals three years old. The census of the seal herd in 1920 indicated 582,718 seals of all ages, as of August 10, of which 167,527 were breeding females and the same number of newborn young. The 1921 census showed the existence of 587,820 seals of all ages, of which 176,655 were breeding females and a larger number of young. The aggregate strength of the herd, according to these figures, did not include the seals killed in each of the years named."

With reference to the growth of the blue fox industry, the report shows: "Another valuable natural resource of the Pribilof Islands is a herd of blue foxes, which are practically dependent for food on the carcasses of seals killed for their pelts. Under the careful handling this herd is now receiving, the number of animals has steadily increased and the yield of skins has become larger than ever before under Government auspices. The fox pelts taken during the winter of 1919-20, numbering 901 blues and 37 whites, were sold in public auction in St. Louis in February, 1921, for $80,689. During the winter of 1920-21, after an ample breeding reserve had been released the department's agents took 1,125 blue foxes and 14 white foxes, whose skins will be sold in due course."

The 235 native inhabitants of the Pribilof Islands are Government wards and depend for their existence on the food, shelter, fuel and clothing provided for them by the department.

DELIVERS TIN FOR B.C. SALMON PACK

SS. Mongolian Prince in Port This Afternoon From Swansea

Bringing 2,500 tons of tin plate from Swansea for the manufacture of cans to take care of this year's salmon pack, the Furness-Withy freighter, Mongolian Prince reached port early this afternoon. The freighter made quarantine about noon and reached the Outer Docks shortly after 1 o'clock.

The Mongolian Prince brought 400 tons of tin plate for local discharge, the shipment being consigned to J. N. Todd & Sons. The balance of the freight of tin sheets will be divided between other British Columbia canneries.

This is the first time that British tin has been used for the British Columbia salmon pack in many years. Much of the tin in recent years has been supplied by the United States Steel Products Company. The shipment by the Mongolian Prince was loaded at the Welsh port of Swansea.

Another Shipment Coming.
According to word brought by the Mongolian Prince another shipment of 700 tons of tin plate is coming from Swansea to British Columbia by the steamship Eastern Prince.

The Mongolian Prince, after completing the discharge of her inward cargo, will load freight on this coast for the Orient.

On her last outward trip from this coast the freighter carried a large consignment of British Columbia salmon.

Sunday School Secretary Coming.—Rev. William Simpson, Western Field Secretary for the General Board of Religious Education of the Church of England in Canada, will arrive in Victoria to-day on an official visit to the diocese of Columbia. Mr. Simpson is announced to preach at to-morrow morning's service in St. Saviour's Church, Victoria West, and in St. John's Church to-morrow night.

Kirkham's Staff Dance.—The staff of H. O. Kirkham & Co., Limited, has arranged to hold their second annual dance at the Alexandra ballroom, Courtney Street, on Tuesday, February 7. Cecil Heaton's Orchestra has been engaged for the occasion, so a good programme is assured. Their first dance held at the K. of P. hall last year proved a big success and the committee in charge of this year's event is sparing no effort to have this one even more successful.

Royal Purple Socials.—The Order of the Royal Purple will resume its popular monthly social evenings next Tuesday, January 24, at 8.30 in the Elks' Club. Progressive Five Hundred and dancing, to the music of Ozard's orchestra, will be the form of entertainment, the arrangements being in the hands of two capable ladies, Mrs. R. G. Grant and Mrs. F. G. Grant. The net proceeds will be used to augment the fund for public relief.

W.C.T.U. Mission Meeting.—There was a large attendance of women at the monthly meeting of the West-End Women's Christian Temperance Union, held in Wesley Church parlour on Thursday afternoon after the devotional and business period. The Rev. D. M. McLachlin, D.D., Field Secretary for Evangelism and Social Service, addressed the meeting, dealing with existing conditions in England, Scotland, United States and Canada, urging the women to go forward steadfastly in their work for prohibition, and prevention of the Sabbath and Social Service. Several of the city unions were represented, and the meeting closed with a very pleasant social hour.

Dancing will follow.

Scouts Use Pool.—Scouts and Wolf Cubs of Victoria district now have the use of the swimming pool at the Bay Street Armory on Wednesday afternoon. From 3 until 4 o'clock is set aside as the hour for the Wolf Cubs, while the Scouts may use the pool from 4 p. m. to 4.50 p. m. Scouts or Cubs who wish to attend their own period may arrange to be present at that of the other group, it is stated. Opportunity for passing for the first class swimming success and the committee in charge of this year's event is sparing no effort to have this one even more successful.

Judgment Reserved.—His Honor Judge Lampman reserved judgment at the close of the hearing of the appeal of Rex versus Chu Wah and Sun in the County Court yesterday. The defendants appealing from a fine of $50 and confiscation of unsealed liquor alleged in a police court conviction, held that the Government Liquor Act, in so far as the section describing sealing is concerned, was invalid, a stand that has been taken many times before by counsel in similar appeals. J. S. Brandon, D. S. Tait and H. W. Davey appeared for the appellants with C. L. Harrington, city prosecutor, for the Crown.

Local Man Bereaved.—The success and pleasure of the visit to England, in order to interest capital in the development of British Columbian and Victorian ventures of Arthur V. Watts, of this city, has been marred by the sudden death of his sister-in-law, wife of his clergyman brother, Rev. H. S. Watts, of King's Heath, Birmingham, according to news received by Mrs. A. V. Watts of 301 Gorge Road. The death occurred just before Christmas, at which festival it is believed have been reported. R. C. Treherne, of the Dominion Entomological Branch, told the British Columbia Entomological Society in their twenty-first convention here this afternoon.

The year 1921 was marked, it was said, by no great insect outbreak on the lower mainland. Even the mosquito crop failed to materialize, and the chief trouble was from the insidious attentions of the usual pests, R. Glendenning told the society in speaking on the question of insects of economic importance. The speaker dealt with the various insects and the method of extermination.

The society held an informal discussion during the morning session on various matters affecting the work of the organization. It was stated that the potato bug was among the more recent importations of insects into British Columbia.

Addresses given during the day included the following: Hemiscarapites Malus and Its Relation to the Oyster

YESTERDAY OFFICIALS OF THE CANADIAN CLUB completed the presentation of prizes in the public schools to winners of the Club's prize for the highest marks in Canadian history at the High School entrance examinations. Ten prizes in all have been presented. Yesterday the prizes were presented to Margaret McNaughton, George Jay School; Amy Vye-accepting the gift on behalf of the prize-winner who was absent; Dorothy E. Pitney, North Ward; Inez Perry, Quadra. On Thursday the prizes were presented to Ruth Carter, Sir James Douglas School; Leonidas Metro, South Park; and Katherine McLaren, Victoria West.

UNEMPLOYED ASK CASH WAGES NOT FOOD FROM CITY

So Wood Cutting Scheme Is Halted; Start Again Next Week

The city's new "work test" wood cutting scheme was halted to-day, after proceeding for a couple of days because unemployed men who were cutting wood refused to work except for cash wages. A dispute between the city and a wood company from which cord wood for the scheme was being purchased also resulted in delay. It is hoped that the scheme may get under way again early next week.

Under the city's present plan men who are given work cutting cord wood are provided with food and other necessities to the value of $2.50 for every cord of wood cut. Alderman E. S. Woodward, Chairman of the Civic Finance Committee, was informed this morning, however, that the men wanted cash wages and would take nothing else. Alderman Woodward immediately went into conference with City Solicitor H. S. Pringle on the matter but the legal aspect of the question was still in doubt at noon to-day.

The city has had trouble also in its Humpback Reservoir drainage work. About half the workmen on this job went on a strike yesterday because they did not like the food which was being served at the Reservoir camp. City Engineer F. M. Preston has sent out another gang of men to replace the strikers.

ANTI-CHINESE SCHOOL PLANS, HERE APPROVED

New Regulation Governing Older Chinese Pupils Ratified

The City School Board's plan for preventing older Chinese pupils from attending junior grades in city schools has been approved by the Department of Education, it was announced at the School Board Offices to-day.

The Board's plan is embodied in this resolution passed when the Trustees met Wednesday night: "Subject to the approval of the Department of Education, all students of sixteen years or over are to be excluded from next Monday from the junior grades of the city's schools, except under special permission."

While this resolution does not apply only to Chinese, it will, as a matter of fact, serve the Board's purpose, which is to remove some fifteen Chinese boys of about sixteen years of age from the Rock Bay School. It is stated that there are scarcely any white children over sixteen years of age attending junior grades, so that the new regulation will have little effect on white pupils. In special circumstances the Board, of course, can make exceptions to its general rule and it is expected, it will do so in the case of white children.

EARWIG DISCOVERED IN THIS PROVINCE

B. C. Entomological Society Discusses Pest

The European Earwig, first cousin to the cockroach, has invaded the lower mainland and it is believed that some of them have reached portions of Vancouver Island. In Vancouver cases of houses being seriously infested have been reported. R. C. Treherne, of the Dominion Entomological Branch, told the British Columbia Entomological Society in their twenty-first convention here this afternoon.

The year 1921 was marked, it was said, by no great insect outbreak on the lower mainland. Schemes for providing employment at Worcester include the construction of a new bridge over the Severn for road and foot traffic. The existing one at Worcester has been widened since it was constructed, and the development of traffic, especially motor vehicles, frequently causes stoppages.

Another party of United States boy farmers will visit England next year and will go to the Royal Show at Cambridge in July. It will be remarked that a party of Texas boy farmers visited England last June and saw the Royal Show at Derby, where they were greatly impressed with a number of breeds of stock new to them. They were also entertained by the Young Farmers Club at Welwyn, Hertfordshire.

Next year the United States International Stock-Judging Contest and their reward is a free visit to England for 20 days.

Sir John Martin Harvey, the actor has undergone an operation for appendicitis. Sir John's illness came at the end of a very successful season at the Lyceum Theatre, where he had revived two of the plays with which he has been most associated.
"The Only Way" and "The Breed of the Treshams." His health has not been good for some time past; he had an illness during his tour of Canada earlier in the year.

It is estimated that 700,000 acres of big estates have been sold since the end of the war. The total acreage of agricultural land in Great Britain is about 25,000,000.

In many cases the sales are due to private family reasons, but in some cases the largest landowners have stated publicly that the heavy expenditure in the upkeep and the overwhelming burden of taxation have made the continuance of great estates very difficult. The large sales during the last three years mean the multiplication of small tenant-holders.

In terms of money the sales of property registered at the Estate Exchange in 1918 amounted to $11, 382,598.

At Lincoln Alfred Dovey was summoned under the Lord's Day Observance Act for selling sweets on Sunday. The defendant said that in other large towns the "silly old Lincoln" a fine of 5s. was imposed.

King's wood, situated between High Wycombe and Penn, has been secured by the Chipping Wycombe parish council for preservation as an open space. It covers an area of about 188 acres, and is beautifully wooded with beeches. The wood's existence dates back further than the Norman Conquest, and formerly belonged to the Manor of High Wycombe.

Now that the salvage work at Hull has advanced, the damage done by the flood is more nearly assessed.
All the docks of the port are not affected, and cargo can be safely sent for shipment. The railways have fully repaired the damage to the lines. The general opinion is that a financial and commercial quarters is that the actual damage to property amounts in Hull and the surrounding districts on both sides of the Humber to between $450,000 to $500,000.

Beneath the floor of an old inn at Barnard Castle a deep cellar hewn out of solid rock has been found below that a well, 16 feet in diameter, containing water 21 feet deep. It is believed to be an ancient brew house associated with the castle.

The first woman's bank of Ohio, catering especially to women, was recently opened in Cleveland. It is capitalized at $1,000,000. Mrs. Florence Harrold Andrews is the president and women alone are employed to guide the policies of the institution.

BUMPED OUT OF LEAD AGAIN.

The Aries not only lost the game last night but they dipped their colors to Vancouver in the race for the league leadership.

Roy Comes Out With Challenges and Hot Words in His Reply

Dominion Football Secretary Asked "Cowards Who Made Slandorous Statements to Come Out in Open;" Advises Member of Quebec Association Who Cannot Understand Financial Statement of Scots' Tour to See Brain Specialists.

Montreal, Jan. 21.—In a 500-word letter to the Sporting Editor of The Montreal Herald, published here yesterday, Secretary David Roy, of the Dominion Football Association, once more covers the ground in connection with the tour of the Scottish international footballers in this country, and the United States and the criticism on the statement of the accounts of the tour issued by the D. F. A. raised at the meeting here on January 5 of the Province of Quebec Football Association.

Mr. Roy does not mince his words in his reply. He makes out a list of fourteen definite observations, in the course of which he says:

"The latest P. Q. F. A. resolution opens with the marvelous paragraph: 'The D. F. A. have not yet furnished a statement of the recent tour in the Dominion,' this is of course an obvious, palpable and direct lie, since my statement was published broadcast throughout the Dominion, as everyone knows."

Commenting on press reports of the P. Q. F. A. meeting in which it was stated that criticism of the D. F. A. was featured by statements which if published would inundate the Dominion with libel suits, Mr. Roy "politely" calls upon the contemptible cowards who made the slanderous statements in question, to come out into the open, from the no-man's-land of the back of their heads, and take a chance in the courts of justice with their foul slanders.

Referring to the suggestion made at the Province of Quebec Football Association meeting that President MacNeill and himself should resign, Mr. Roy gives public notice that as far as he is concerned it is his intention to run again for office next spring. I shall not solicit a single vote, but will reply confidently on the judgment of sane thinking men at our next annual meeting."

Mr. Roy makes personal attacks upon a football sporting writer in this city and another in Montreal, Bell, former president of the D. F. A.

See a Brain Specialist.

He takes particular exception to "last effort of the P. Q. F. A. to incite the other provincial bodies to open rebellion." In connection with the request sent out by that body to have all other provincial organizations join together in a demand to have the records of expenses and receipts of the Scottish international footballers' tour checked by a chartered accountant, and says this will be done in time and in the meanwhile, he claims that the various statements issued by himself is not intelligible to any member of the P. Q. F. A. that member should consult a brain specialist.

At the conclusion of the letter, President MacNeill certifies "that all of the documentary evidence referred to by the secretary is in his possession and that the various statements made by him are true and correct in every particular."

FIREMEN AND NEWSIES TO SETTLE DISPUTE

Basketball is to Be Feature at the Community Centre To-night; Other Sports

The combined forces of the Victoria Firemen will meet the Newsies' squad at the community centre to-night under the auspices of the Fifth Regiment, C. G. A. The whistle will blow at 8:15 and the teams will settle an argument which has been waiting to be cleared up.

For the first time the Victoria Firemen will be represented in basketball circles and the snappy team has been lined up for the struggle with "Turk" Grice managing the newsboys' quintette.

It is a well-known fact that the local hose-pullers have always possessed a strong team. The fire fighters' always show a keen interest in all sports which they have entered and an exceptional good game should be the result to-night.

An addition has been made to the newsboys' squad by securing the services of Tom Nute and Fred Webster, who have splendid speed and good shooting ability. The line-up for the Victoria Newspaper Club is as follows: Charles Thomas, Andy Velch, Otto Harold, Tommy Nute, Fred Webster and R. Buckett.

The City Fire squad: Matthews, Briers, Reid, Riddle and Frank. Bert Hocking will lead after the boys and see that they don't get naughty.

Many other sport events have been secured for the evening, among these will be a gymnasium display by the boys of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, while the swimming pool will be open all night for the use of the ladies.

Dancing will bring the evening to a conclusion, the music being supplied by the Fifth Regiment band under the direction of Bandmaster Ramsay. The entrance on Bay Street will be the only door in use during the night.

Moose Johnson Quits Victoria For Keeps

Moose Johnson has decided to let the Aristocrats try and win the P. C. H. A. pennant without him. Yes, the old feller has quit the team. Just what overtook him and caused him to act this way is somewhat of a mystery at present.

The Moose arrived at the decision last Wednesday and carted his baggage over to Seattle, announcing that he would never again play in Victoria. Lester Patrick, manager of the Aristocrats, had heard the Moose make statements of this kind before and did not take them seriously. When Johnson failed to return from the Sound with the team on Thursday, Lester still was the opinion that Ernie would be back, but when he did not call for his uniform last night the local press was convinced that Johnson was sincere in his intention to break his contract.

Can't Understand.

"I can't understand his actions," remarked Lester this morning. "He never told me that he intended to quit. I had to get it out of him myself. When I reached the Seattle boat on Wednesday afternoon I saw the Moose with more grins than usual and finally word reached me that Johnson was not coming back to this city. I searched him out and he told me he intended to quit. I asked him what his grievances were and he said he had none."

"This was not the first time that the Moose has talked of quitting and turned in his uniform. Consequently, while I realized that the Moose was more serious than before, I did not think he would actually take the step. I would not have been surprised to have seen him return from Seattle yesterday afternoon and be ready for the game last night. But he did not come so it looks as though we must write him to the career of one of the gamblers and most conscientious players of the game last night. He is the one who started playing hockey with the Moose I wish he had chosen a better way of terminating his career, for to leave a team in mid-season when it is so difficult to pick up a replacement is an act of bad faith on the part of a player, especially when the team is on top, is an unique occurrence in hockey. Of course I am done with the Moose for his breach of contract."

Sorry for Action.

All hockey fans in Victoria, Seattle and Vancouver and all other cities that have seen the Moose play or have heard of his record, will regret to know that Johnson actually quit the team without making any announcement. "The Moose" must have evidently forgotten entirely the show of good will which the citizens of Victoria displayed towards him last season when he staged a "Moose" show in his honor. To turn around and leave the team just when it is well on its way to the first championship it has known since 1906, one of the most famous hockey organizations and either winner or runner-up for the Stanley cup for six years hand running. He came to the coast when this league was formed in 1913 and has been with the Portland or Victoria since that day.

For years he was in a class by himself as a defense man. He had the longest reach in hockey, and to accentuate that asset, used the longest stick. His daring further added to his effectiveness. Three years ago his speed began leaving him, however, until during the past two years he has been very weak. It left the burden on five other men.

Johnson was the oldest player in the game, and by his action in quitting the Aries is automatically out of organized hockey.

"HIGH" BEAT BAYS.

The James Bay Athletic Association and the Victoria High School men, engaged in a basketball game at the High gym last night and the latter registered a safe victory over their opponents. For the first half of the game the play was very even, and the fast dribbling and passing made a great hit with the spectators. Both teams fought hard, and at half time the score, stood 16-14 in favor of the "High."

In the second half the High School opened out and rushed up to a big lead, and an excellent going to the United States and world's championship here yesterday, defeating Bobby McLean, New York, Donald Baker, Brooklyn, and Eddie Day of Canada.

Lamy won both the 440-yard and half-mile events. McLean won the mile race, but Lamy was such a close contender that the judges were obliged to hold a consultation before naming the winner. No records were broken.

Los Angeles, Jan. 21.—Young Brown, of Los Angeles, defeated Monk Fowler, of New Orleans, in the four-round main event at the Arena of the Hollywood Post, American Legion, here last night. They are 130-pounders.

Teddy Silva, of Los Angeles, was given the decision over Terry O'Farrell, of San Francisco in the semi-windup. They are 115-pounders.

Los Angeles, Jan. 21.—Hugh Walker, Kansas City heavyweight, has been matched to meet Harry Greb, of Pittsburgh, in a 10-round bout at Grand Rapids, Mich., January 27, it was announced here last night.

FINIS WRITTEN TO HIS HOCKEY CAREER

SO LONG, MOOSE.

Ernie Johnson has gone. His loss is not irreparable to the local club, yet he might have chosen a nicer way of getting out.

Aries Slacken After Playing Great Game And Lose to Cookies

Victoria Obtained Two-Goal Lead in Second Period, But Team Faltered in Last Half of Final Period and Vancouver Evened Score, Winning Out Five Minutes After Overtime Started on Harris's Hot Shot.

Running along like a well-oiled, ball-bearing machine in the first two periods and then pulling up with a jerk that made their old bus rattle like a cart full of tin cans, the Aristocrats passed up the chance of a lifetime to trim the Millionaires at the Arena last night. There was no doubting which was the best team in the first fifty minutes of play, Victoria having a distinct edge on both the offensive and defensive. In the last half of the third period the Aries crumpled up, due in no small measure to the infliction of penalties, and Vancouver romped through and picked off two counters, evening the score. Five minutes after the overtime had been underway the Millionaires snuck up the rubber and cantered off the ice not only with the game but also with the league leadership once again tucked under their arm.

U. S. GOLF LINKS ARE NOW CLOSED

Owing to the weather conditions of the past few days the United Services golf links have been closed to play. It is hoped that they will be in shape early next week.

CALGARY REGAINS LEAD FROM REGINA

The Victoria fans got a taste of what the Seattle followers have had to swallow in the last two clashes between the Aries and Mets over in the Sound rink. On both these occasions Seattle was sailing along with a nice lead in the last period when the Aristocrats caught a heavy breeze and slipped through to victory once in an overtime period. That's just what happened last night. Vancouver picked up a flying start while the Aries were off in the drums laboring heavily.

Victoria took the game for the first time in many years without the service of Ernie Johnson, and they will continue on their way towards the pennant without him. The Moose's absence was in no way responsible for the loss. Eddie Oatman took Johnson's place, and he played a splendid game. He doesn't own a nose dive, but he stands up on his feet and meets his man squarely as he comes in and stays with him until the puck is cleared. Eddie played a sterling game. He drew a penalty at an unfortunate moment, and while he was off the pond Vancouver tied up the score. Oatman's leg appeared to be all right once again, and it is hoped that it will be able to carry his weight for the rest of the season. If he is forced to lay off again the Aries will be hard pressed for players.

Lester Again in Goal.

Lester Patrick appeared in uniform and made the second local utility man. He was on the bench once, and it was in a new position. When he got back to the bench he was in the cage like two wild cats. McKay and Skinner got to fighting in the cage like two wild cats. McKay and Skinner got to fighting in the cage like two wild cats. McKay and Skinner got to fighting in the cage like two wild cats.

Meeking Paves Way.

Victoria's "mooseless" array had the fans on their feet, stamping and shouting, right off the reel. Then went in on top of Lehman for shot after shot, and with only three minutes gone, Meeking hooked the puck from Duncan's stick and beat MacKay and Cook. He gave Frederickson the puck a few feet out, and Lehman over his stick into the net.

Immediately afterward Frederickson, Wilt and Dunderdale beat the visiting defence, but Wilt slipped up on a pass with the net at his mercy. Vancouver gradually settled down and began to attack hotly. MacKay, doing some very fast rushing and Adams tottling down the centre ice and getting an occasional shot. With the period half gone Vancouver evened things up. Harris slipped a shot from the left, across the gold-mouth and Skinner snatched it on the right. He was uncovered and beat Fowler with a terrific shot.

Wilt Loughlin and Frederickson closed on Lehman with great speed, but Hughie did the usual sensational thing. Then Skinner tried to score on his nose and got inside the cage, and Fowler and Alf thought they were a pair of prize Kilkenny's cat and paid one another a few Sinn Fein compliments.

Fur Brushed Wrong Way.

It was quite evident at this stage of the game that a lot of fur was being brushed the wrong way. The body checking was very heavy and there was a lot of hacking, tripping and jabbing with Fowler off the ice. Victoria stalled for time and as soon as

He returned to his home the Aries bottled up Vancouver completely. It was a wonder that a shot of any consequence. Frederickson tried to get through, and MacKay and Adams attempted the sandwich act. "Freddie," however, was too elusive and the two Millionaires came together with an awful crash and went down, MacKay rubbing his head for the rest of the period.

Eddie Got Second Goal.

Victoria showed a great turn of speed in the second period, and after a momentary attack by Vancouver in which Fowler was shot down by shots from Skinner and Harris, Eddie Oatman and Dunderdale skated through the Vancouver defence. Both stick-handlers were in a race for a shot had Lehman tangled up in a knot and he could not save it. The Aries came on with rush after rush. Frederickson broke away alone and after cooling the water defence tried to cross up Lehman but it was no use. Hughie kicked out Freddie's shot, which came from a few feet. Wilt Loughlin was shot down by shots from Skinner and Harris, Eddie Oatman and Dunderdale skated through the Vancouver defence. ROYAL VICTORIA

"Queen of Sheba," the super-special which will be shown for the last time to-day at the Royal Victoria Theatre, is a spectacularly magnificent and dramatically superb. It leaves one gasping with amazement and admiration. The marriage of the Queen of Sheba to King Solomon, the day of racing and games, the thrilling chariot race between Sheba and Princess Vashti, the arrival of David, the little Prince of Sheba, the battle between the forces of King Solomon and those of Adonijah, his recreant brother; the farewell of the Queen of Sheba to King Solomon—all are scenes never to be forgotten.

Betty Blythe is altogether charming in the exacting role of the Queen, Fritz Lieber is impressive as King Solomon, and all other members of the notable cast give excellent accounts of themselves. Great credit due William Fox for having undertaken this colossal production and carried it through in such splendid fashion; to J. Gordon Edwards, the director, and to all who have had any part in the great work.

"I am in my 78th year. About 25 years ago, I began to have trouble with my Stomach. One doctor said I had Cancer; another said Ulcer of the Stomach; another said Gall Stones; others, Ulcers of the Liver and inflammation of the Gall Bladder."

"Three years ago, I consulted one of the best specialists in Montreal. He said I must go to the hospital, have an Ulcer cut out of my stomach and gall stones removed. I was then 74 years old. I said 'NO.'"

"Then, I began to take 'Fruit-a-tives.' I found they helped me a lot, and I still take them occasionally, and I am so much better that my old friends often ask me what I have done to myself to look so well. I am gaining in weight and enjoying life very much."

After a week of strenuous life at the Columbia Theatre Tom Mix, his trusty gun and lariat will end their stay in "Hands Off" to-night and the William Fox production will move on. Every day at the Columbia Theatre has seen record crowds in attendance since the first showing of the picture. The stamp of popular approval has been placed on Mix's new picture and to-night will be the last chance to view one of the breeziest western dramas seen here in some time.

"MAPLE LEAFS" MONDAY

Captain M. W. Plunkett will present the newly re-organized "Maple Leafs" road company at the Royal Victoria Theatre on Monday and Tuesday, January 23 and 24.

The name, "Camouflage" has been retained for their new revue, which has been entirely revised by Capt. Plunkett, and brought up to the minute with the new songs, dances and laugh lines.

Pat R. Barry, the inimitable fun-maker of last season's show, has a great chance for versatility in the two new satirical sketches, as well as in two or three single numbers with which he has been provided.

Ben Allen, Canada's favorite minstrel, has a new line of patter and songs which never fails to bring down the house. Incidentally, Allen and Petch have been requested to sing their old-time song "I Said Goodbye," and it will be a feature of the programme here.

Harry Ashton, the "Maple Leafs" star leading lady, has some wonderful songs which he sings in the manner of the programme here.

Morley Plunkett is again the handsome, dashing juvenile man of the company, while Bob Anderson, also an old favorite in France and Canada, is cleverer than ever in his various light comedy characterizations of different types of army officers and men.

Taken all in all, the Fourth Division boys have one of the brightest and snappiest revue shows on the road to-day, and Captain Plunkett has given them an elaborate production, with gorgeous costumes and beautiful settings.

"THE BIRD OF PARADISE"

Richard Walton Tully's captivating story of the Hawaiian Islands, "The Bird of Paradise," will be seen for its annual engagement at the Royal Victoria Theatre Monday and Tuesday, January 30 and 31.

The charm of this romantic offering lies not only in its originality, but also in the fact that it has the one essential which makes a stage production a success, namely "a heart punch." The fascinating love story of the little Hawaiian princess, Luana, who marries a white man, only to learn that the white and brown race should not mate, realizes her mistake, returns to her people, and offers herself as a sacrifice to save them from destruction, also teaches a wonderful story of Christianity, that no matter how low a man may have fallen, he can be brought back to the light through environment and influence.

Manager Tully will offer a new presenting company this season headed by Ann Reader, a very capable actress of marked dramatic ability. Others in the cast include Herbert Charles, Frederick Forrester, Ellen Mahar, Rose Watson, Frank L. Cooley, Jas. K. Appelbee, Joseph Robinson, Douglas Cosgrove and the native band of Hawaiian singers and players who will be heard in their haunting melodies.

G.V.V.A. BAND CONCERT SUNDAY

Mrs. T. L. Hopkins Will Make First Appearance

Some very interesting features are included in the programme of the G. V. V. A. band concert to-morrow evening at the Capitol, after church hours. The overture, "Il Guarany," is found in many a band programme, and has met with great favor by large audiences. The sextette from "Lucia" is always a favorite, while the value "Thoughts" (by request) is from the prolific pen of Kenneth Alford, the writer of the selection Humoresque, "Musical Switch" which, by the way, must not be confused with the "Musical Strike," played at one of the recent band concerts with much evident delight and amusement of those present.

Mrs. Thomas S. Hopkins, a new singer in the community, will be heard for the first time at these concerts. Miss Eva Hart needs no heralding. Always artistic and popular, she will sing one of Novello's clever compositions, "Lilie Dorel," which has a big following in the city. Keen, clever, sparkling and original, his sketch, "Local Topics," is sure to meet with the greatest merriment from an anticipated big audience. His Honor Lieutenant Governor W. C. Nichol and party will be present on the occasion. The programme is as follows:

March—"The Gladiator's Farewell".....Blankenburg
Overture—"Il Guarany".....Gomez
Song—"Life's Lullaby".....Gerald Lane
Valse—"Thoughts" (by request).....Alford
"Original sketch—"Local Topics".....Reginald Hincks.

Selection—
(a) Sextette from "Lucia".....Donizetti
(b) Quartette from "Rigoletto".....Verdi
Song—.....Ivor Novello
Miss Eva Hart.

Selection Humoresque—"Musical Switch".....Alford Accompanist—Mrs. A. J. Gibson.

"Musical Switch," a humoresque composition, is an amusing illustration of the remarkable similarity occasionally found 'twixt melodies, classical and popular. It will be noticed that many of the tunes heard constantly in our popular houses of entertainment are reminiscent of well-known classical and sacred airs.

JOHNSON STREET

Owners West of Government Street on Johnson Street to Meet

Owners of Johnson Street property who are desirous of improving that portion of the street lying west of Government Street will hold a meeting at 620 Broughton Street on Thursday evening next, in order that some concerted and well-considered action may be taken whereby the full benefit of the opening of the bridge may be secured.

At one time this portion of Johnson Street was one of the principal retail streets of the city, but owing to the closing of Rock Bay Bridge and the removal of the street car line from Store Street it has become the chief section of the city for second-hand stores and junk dealers.

It is hoped that the opening of the bridge will bring the traffic from Esquimalt and Victoria West up Johnson to Government and Douglas Streets, but in order to effect this it is necessary to improve the character of many of the stores and remodel and paint the buildings. It is with this object the meeting has been called.

DO YOU SMOKE TOO MUCH?

There are many men on whose heart and nervous system tobacco produces the most serious results. It causes palpitation, pain in the heart, irregularity of its beat, makes the hands tremble, sets the nerves on edge, causes shortness of breath, and loss of sleep.

To counteract this demoralizing influence on the heart and nerves there is no remedy so equal to the MILBURN'S

HEART AND NERVE PILLS

They make the heart beat strong and steady, restore tone and vigor to the nerves, and remove all the evil results caused by the tobacco.

Mr. Frank Leites, 71 Terrace Hill St., Brantford, Ont., writes:—"I had been troubled with palpitation of the heart for a number of years, and by spells it would bother me a lot. The doctor told me it would stop on me sometime if I did not cut out tobacco. When I would get a spell my heart would pound, and I would break out in a perspiration, and get so weak I would have to sit right down and quit my work; also in the night I would wake up and my heart would be going. I should say, about 120 beats a minute. About three years ago I got a box of your Heart and Nerve Pills, took them, and found that they did the job. I am feeling fine and have gained over 20 pounds in weight."

Fire Brigade.
The Alberni volunteer fire brigade had a special meeting in the Fire Hall to consider the resignation of Chief Forrest, who had requested that he be relieved of office at once. In moving that the resignation be accepted, the assistant chief, E. M. Whyte, voiced the regrets of the brigade that Mr. Forrest should wish to retire, stating the brigade would miss his leadership very much indeed.

Mr. Forrest has been chief for the past eight years, and always proved himself very efficient in the discharge of his duties, and has been well liked by the members of the brigade.
An election was then held to fill the vacancy, and E. M. Whyte, was unanimously chosen to become the new chief, G. W. Blandy, assistant chief, and A. Mackay, Jr., captain.

On Committee.
In order that the brigade might not lose altogether the services of Mr. Forrest, he was elected to a place on the executive committee.

After the meeting was over the brigade members were the guests of Ex-Chief Forrest and Mrs. Forrest at their home at a chicken supper, after which there was a short musical programme rendered by members of the brigade. Chief Whyte extended to Mr. and Mrs. Forrest the thanks of the brigade for their kind hospitality.

YEARS ADDED TO LIFE OF MOTOR BY CLEANLINESS

Inkempt Auto Poor Economy and Bad Taste

Personal appearance counts for a lot in life. Men generally, and women in particular, find it advantageous to make as presentable a display of themselves in public as is possible. The same principle applies to the automobile. Just as some men forget to shave and remember to wear a suit that isn't even fit to give the Salvation Army and proceed to go about presenting a most unseemly picture, so no small number of automobilists persist in cluttering up the scenery with cars that would be a disgrace to the average junk heap, says C. H. Brokaw, automobile expert.

This sort of thing is poor economy as well as bad taste. Every owner of a machine should take pride in the bright and shiny varnish of the body, the sparkling of the nickel parts and the absence of rustiness of the top. It is marvellous what a transformation a little paint and polish will make. The expense involved is not great. The value of the car is increased, the depreciation is lessened, and the satisfaction of ownership is doubled.

Must Look Inside.

Man looks on the outward appearance of a car—until something goes wrong, then the auto mechanic looks on the inside. Just because the engine, for instance, reposes under the hood, safe from the gaze of the casual observer, as the car speeds along the highway, is no reason why the pride of good appearance should not extend to the internal workings of the machine. It is even more important to keep clean such an important factor of an automobile as the engine than it is to be able to see through the wind shield. The engine should be kept so clean it will be perfectly at home when being driven through "Spotless Town." It should be kept free from oil, grease, dust and corrosion of iron and brass. The cleaner it is the longer it will run satisfactorily both as to freedom of troubles and length of life.

Personal cleanliness is supposed to tend toward goodliness, and engine cleanliness is certain to tend to breakdowns and worn out motors. One may well err on the side of cleanliness in preference to slovenliness. The motor ought to be cleaned off on the outside after any lengthy trip or after any run when roads are dusty, or oily or sandy.

Oil on Motor.

One may be as particular as possible, yet there will be some oil or grease on the motor exterior. Probably that which lodges upon the cylinders will, if there be much bill climbing to heat the motor unduly make itself both visible and smelly—visible in a thin streak of smoke strikes the olfactory nerves. But in most instances it will remain upon the engine, gradually becoming a gum from the drying up of the substance and the secretion of dust from the road. The longer it remains the harder it is to remove; hence when the work is done in the garage every time when the car comes in, it will take but a few minutes and slight labor. If allowed to accumulate, it may mean hours of hard work to get rid of the hard deposit.

Where to Begin.

Begin at the top of the engine. First see that all wire terminals at the spark plugs are free from corrosion and grease. They should be dry and clean, if they are to transmit the current to the plugs. Usually the wires are carried in a tube to protect them from heat and grease, but not always. In any event, trace the wires to see that oil or grease is not present upon them. Either will rot the rubber insulation and cause a leak which will affect the ignition. Examine all the terminals under the hood for the same purpose, and every once in a while disconnect the wires, one by one, and scrape the terminals bright, also the contact point where the terminal is fastened. Replace the wires one by one as they are cleaned, so they will not become disarranged. See also that there is no oil, grease, or dirt on the spark plugs, for it might form a sufficient path for the current to practically short-circuit the plug.

PRETTY RESORT ON SAANICH ARM

Wipe off the top of the cylinders and blow out accumulations of dust from any recesses where it has collected. If there is thickened or gummy oil upon the metal which will not wipe off rapidly, saturate the waste or cloth in gasoline at the carburetor drip cock, and it will loosen up quickly. Gasoline is more convenient, but kerosene will do the work better, leaving a surface less likely to rust.

In the same way clean the exterior of all parts of the motor and everything attached to it. Where the brass shows corrosion, use a cleaning compound to remove it. Brass may be kept from corroding in wet weather by coating it with whitening. Several good compounds are also sold for this purpose. Bright iron parts may be kept from rusting by wiping them with a rag dampened with a thin oil, which should be wiped off regularly.

Collect Much Dust.

The fan, fan belt, pulleys, gear casings and other parts at the front end of the car collect much dust and should be kept clean. The air holes through the radiator also must be kept free of dirt and cleaned of dirt from oiled roads. In fact, every part under the hood needs frequent cleaning.

There are some parts of the chassis and undergear which will not be readily reached by the hose and water when cleaning the body. They should be rubbed off and cleaned of dirt of all kinds. The parts of the various rods and worker shafts, particularly near the bearings, should be kept clean.

Take a hose and play it freely over the body and running gear, fenders, mud guards, wheel, taking care not to wet the upholstery. Then, with the soft sponge over all the parts to remove any remaining dirt and rinse down with water. Then with a cloth or chamois dry the work and rub other painted surfaces until they shine.

Kerosene Useful.

Where mud and asphalt are dried and refractory, it may be necessary to use kerosene. Grease and oil will also yield to kerosene. The kerosene, however, should be wiped off and the painted parts polished with a cloth dampened in linseed oil. Naturally this should be removed completely also so that the surface will not catch dust. Do not use a mixture of linseed oil and a little high grade carriage varnish—a half pint to a gallon of oil. As there is a great variation in both ingredients, if the mixture seems sticky when rubbed between the fingers or when applied to the car surface, add considerable more oil. This is not intended as a new covering for the paint, but to freshen up the varnish.

There will be no contest for the position of president of the Vancouver Automobile Club for 1922, Percy Gomery, long an ardent worker in the interests of the organization, having been elected to the post by acclamation at the regular annual nominating meeting on Tuesday night. The post of treasurer went to C. N. Lee by acclamation. Mr. Lee filled this position for a considerable period.

For the other positions there will be a spirited contest, it is expected. For first vice-president James Dick and Robert Gram were nominated. For second vice-president, J. T. Wilkinson and Max M. Grossman were the nominees.

Six directors will be chosen at the annual meeting next month from the following: A. E. Foreman, Robert Crane, J. Stewart Gall, Max M. Grossman, Victor L. Nutley, Dr. Dallas

LOWER PRICES ARE EXPECTED

Expert Takes Optimistic View of Situation

By ALFRED REEVES,
General Manager U. S. National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

Because automobile manufacturers reduced prices directly to the final consumer, instead of lowering them to the wholesaler and retailer, the automobile business fared very much better during 1921 than was generally expected and better than many other lines of manufacture.

The increasing need for highway transportation, coupled with price reductions in tires, gasoline and other things entering into car maintenance, permitted a production of about 1,680,000 motor vehicles or only 24 per cent less than the 2,205,000 in the second year of 1920. Of this 145,000 were trucks and about 1,535,000 passenger cars.

The decrease in truck production was proportionately greater than in passenger cars, because of the falling off in the demand for transportation that came in the decrease of general business—a development that affected the railroads to an equal degree.

These reduced prices have not been without substantial losses to the manufacturers and the 33,000 motor car dealers, but it was deemed worth while because with final price adjustments about completed the industry enters 1922 with high prices and inventories liquidated, labor more efficient, finances adjusted and definite and economical production programmes under way. The adjustments have been drastic, with comparatively few motor companies showing any profit for the past year, but in the opinion of economists and bankers the action taken will make for a much healthier situation during 1922.

This year the export market is expected to broaden, and with better highways and general better business conditions the industry should continue its steady growth—a growth which incidentally began in 1899 when 3,700 motor cars were produced. The possibilities of the world markets are best shown by the fact that in 1920 more than 170,000 motor vehicles were exported to 114 different countries.

Registration Figures.

The 1921 registration figures show a little more than 10,000,000 cars and trucks, which mean replacements of probably 1,400,000 vehicles this year. The keen competition for these replacements and the other potential markets will bring out better cars and better values than ever before. A big job for the industry now is to keep these 10,000,000 motor vehicles properly serviced, and it is safe to say that consumer satisfaction is going to be a prime factor in the success of any company this year.

The 1,680,000 who purchased new motor vehicles this year, have received the benefits of the post-war readjustment in prices and improvements in service. Wholesale price curves have been falling generally, but in many businesses the retailer has yet to take his loss. In the automobile industry, however, the reductions have all been made direct to the consumer. It is this prompt liquidation policy which gives promise of an early recovery in the automobile trade when general business recovers. Dealers and manufacturers do not look to see any larger output in 1922 than in 1921, unless world conditions take a rapid change for the better. We cannot go far ahead of the general prosperity curve, but we can lay and are laying a basis to get our full share of the better times when they arrive.

It will be a hard year for new companies using either cars or trucks. The inventory of customers shows, for instance, that the industry has done relatively little in the line of occupational selling. The car registers and adding machine companies analyze businesses and show where their machines can be profitable. The same can be done for motor transportation. The automobile industry is just beginning to realize, for instance, that there are in the country 26,000 retail bakers, 1,138 boarding schools, 46,000 insurance agents, 150,000 doctors.

The retail baker requires a panel body truck. The boarding school needs a "suburban" motor car or bus. The insurance agent and the doctor should have roadsters or small enclosed cars. Each of these and other occupations present a sales field requiring special study. The outlook is promising both for dealer and maker. Locally the dealer can work for occupational sales. Nationally the manufacturer can take the experience of one territory and pass it on to another. If a preparatory school in Oklahoma buys a "depot wagon" car, this will be a strong point for a sale to a similar institution in Georgia.

The industry is also becoming increasingly aware of the fact that it must sell used cars as well as new cars.—New York Herald.

"As The Swift Ships"

ONE of the oldest, wisest and most beautiful of human documents, one of the treasures of the human race, is the Book of Job. It sheds a helpful light on some of mankind's most difficult problems. Life, it teaches, is at best, a brief and perilous voyage—from horizon to horizon but a span.

"My days are passed as the swift ships," says the ancient book of Job, and the experience of each succeeding generation of men has verified the statement of this old-time philosopher.

Would you be prepared for every contingency in the Voyage of Life? No other way of prudent precaution is so easily available as life insurance—especially life insurance which is payable to yourself in later years. Endowment insurance protects those dependent upon you during earlier middle life and, at the same time, provides for old age, should old age be attained.

Would you know the Mutual plan of life insurance—the great principle behind every policy issued by the Mutual Life Assurance Company of Canada? Send for our booklet "Life Insurance at Cost."

Billy's First, And Last, Bid For Movie Fame

BILLY McGEE had just returned from the "picture show," where he had been taken by his parents to see what the bill boards described as a "roaring" comedy. Billy had enjoyed himself tremendously, and in addition to laughing heartily at the proper place and time, had drawn attention to his party by giggling in the remaining portions of the play, often when quite unfitting that he should do so.

In fact, when every other little boy in the audience was nearly in tears because the hero was about to be arrested by the police, Billy was chuckling away quite audibly. It developed later that Billy had an idea, which struck him about the same time as a paternal "nudge" to keep quiet, but the idea was so wonderful that Billy could not keep quiet, and merited other "nudges" that he received.

On the way home Billy was strangely silent, and appeared to be making every "face" under the sun. Mr. McGee, remarking the boy's swiftly changing expression at times, would say, "Billy, what is the matter, have you a pain?" Billy would start guiltily at hearing the question, and would say that he was alright. And so it went, until at last his mother could stand it no longer, and told him if he continued to make faces the wind would change and his face would stay changed forever, as the tradition has it.

Early next morning, quite an hour before his usual time, Billy was up and out of the house. He walked undecidedly along the street, stopping every now and then to examine the houses curiously, as if he had never really seen them before. He stooped presently and filled his pockets with stones. Passing a particularly fine residence at the end of the street, Billy did a most extraordinary thing; he threw a stone over the fence and then ran.

It was a disappointed Billy that realized some minutes afterwards that nobody saw him throw the stone, or indeed took the least notice of his antics. Undaunted, however, Billy fared further and threw another stone, this time with unexpected and tremendous results. A harsh voice bellowed out that its owner had a "broken head," and continued to demand vengeance on whoever threw the missile. This was according to plan and Billy smiled seraphically, taking to his heels, and scuttling down the street around the corner. He was not pursued, however, a fact that at the same time puzzled and pained him.

Passing a grocery at the end of the street, Billy sauntered in, and seated himself on a box of apples. The grocer presently came along and lifted him clear off the box and on to the counter. Billy smiled with hidden meaning, but voted the grocer a poor actor when that puzzled individual conducted him to the door and turned him out, and he had not even had a chance to take an apple, let alone sample every bag in the store, as his hero had done; for Billy was acting, and trying to emulate the part of his film hero of the day before.

Billy's activity along the lines of dramatic art cost him, at the end of his self-appointed "engagement," three good spankings, one lighter one (this by mother), and the most cutting declaration by his father, that he "was not a bit funny at all," and if he didn't stop his monkey tricks he would be sent to bed without any supper. Billy, in short, found that while it may be all right for a film actor to do the most entrancing things in the world, little boys of his age were meant to behave like themselves, and not like their heroes of fact or fiction.

Many Excellent Essays Are Being Submitted In Contest

ALITTLE fourteen-year-old girl, residing with her parents at Royal Oak, has taken as one of her main new year's resolutions the idea of working according to a pre-arranged schedule, whereby every spare minute of the day is taken care of to advantage. In the course of an interesting essay submitted in the "1922 Programme" contest, this little reader gives us the benefit of some ideas that are well worth passing along to others:

The little author states that she does not make friends very easily, but is resolved to keep those who are her real friends, and further that others with whom she cannot agree will be avoided sensibly, to save their feelings, and prevent discord; and when met, these latter will be treated pleasantly. This course, explains the little reader, "May seem like looking one thing and meaning another, but it keeps me from hurting others, and I do not mean to do that if it can be avoided."

The same little contributor tells us that last year thirteen resolutions were on her list for the new year, but that only one survived, and that was one calling upon its maker to read right through a list of historical works, which was faithfully accomplished.

Essays submitted for the "1922 Programme" contest are coming along in very satisfactory numbers, testifying to the popularity of good resolutions and the interest of their originators in the thoughts of others of their age and period. For the benefit of our readers who have not yet submitted their contributions, let it be said that the competition closes on January 31, at 4 p.m., and all essays not submitted by that time will have to be disregarded in the judging.

One prize of five dollars will be awarded to the successful essayist, while other contributions of merit will, where found suitable, be published in these columns. The usual rules of composition will apply, and the essays may run to 350 words in length, but should not exceed that limit. Though most of the contributors to the present have written about the actual resolutions they made for the new year, the subject is wider than that and intending contributors may deal with their plans for this year along any line, included in resolutions or not so included. Most of us have definite aims and plans for the year at hand, and it is to get at this vista, for the future that the contest has been so worded.

Whether it be a career in life, or merely the accomplishment of one small task, your plans for the year 1922 are sure to be of interest to your fellow reader, so do not delay entering your essay on this subject. Remember that the name, age and address should be very clearly stated, as in judging the age will be given due weight in the consideration of the merits of the contribution. Above all, remember that originality is worth more than beautifully worded treatises, replete with spotless thoughts and perfect punctuation.

Will Stage Concert In Aid of Brigade

FORMED recently, the Ladies' Auxiliary of the local division of the Boys' Naval Brigade are to stage an entertainment in the Connaught Seamen's Institute on Friday evening next, January 27, when the proceeds will be devoted to the fund of the brigade. Final plans and items on the programme are not yet complete, but will be announced later, it is stated. The Ladies' Auxiliary was inaugurated recently, and is composed of the mothers of the boys of the Naval Brigade and their friends.

Cadet H. Francoise and G. Johnson, of the Canadian Government Freighter Canadiana, were in town this week on a brief visit to their homes, and former "shipmates" of the local division. Both boys have been on the Canadiana to Southern Seas, and will sail next time for Japan, the land of the chrysanthemum.

It will be their first trip across the broad lanes of the Pacific, and they are looking forward eagerly to the experience.

The regular classes of seamanship, conducted by the local instructors of the division are being carried on, and a fine group of boys are being put through the earlier stages of their training in preparation for their calling at sea. While the rigors of Winter, of necessity, tie up a great deal of the work that would otherwise be done out of doors, the progress of the local division has not been stayed, and an even greater period of activity and success is being anticipated for the brigade this season.

STAND BACK THERE

It was London, in war time, and the pieces of falling aircraft shells were raining down fast on that section of the great metropolis known as Hyde Park corner, where stands Marble Arch, a massive archway in an island on the street.

Under the protecting canopy of the arch stood a group of men and women sheltering there from the falling metal. A policeman could be seen at the southern extremity keeping the crowd, and himself, under cover of the marble columns. Ever and anon a piece of falling shell would drop with a whining "shutt" into the roadway in front. At such times the crowd would lurch further into the arch, to be immediately pushed back again. The policeman would herd them back again, only to be forced to the open again by the recoil of the waving humans. This saw continued for some time before the crowd noticed that a policeman was at either side of the arch, and that both were trying to get the crowd back to be able to secure a little cover for themselves, too. The dilemma was solved at last by the crowd inducing both policemen to come on the same side when done, all was again well.

NOT THAT HURRY.

"Next stop is your station, suh," said the porter insinuatingly, "shall I brush you off now, suh?"

"Never mind, if you please; when it stops I will step off."

She always demanded unquestioning and implicit obedience from her children. One day a storm came up suddenly and she told her small son to shut the trap door to the roof.

"Yes, mother, but," he began.

"John, I told you to shut the trap."

"Yes, mother, if you say so, but—"

"John!"

Seeing argument was useless John shut the trap. That night at dinner Aunt Mary was absent, and his mother did not have to ask many questions before John volunteered that the missing aunt was still "on the roof."

Bats Are Sleeping Through Winter Days

CAN you imagine a creature of nature so perverse that it actually hangs by its toes from its perch to sleep, and yet the ears of which are keenly alive to sounds that would not be heard by humans that the noise made by an insect in flying past will awaken it out of its sleep? If so, then you have gone far to visualize the bat, whose presence in Summer time is recorded by fleeting glimpses that may be seen of him at dusk, before our eyes have become clouded with the darkness of the night.

Not unlike a sinister looking mouse in appearance except with the addition of a pair of wings that cloak its hanging form like a black mantle, and of ears that are much larger in proportion to its body than most other of nature's creatures—the bat is a curious little inhabitant of the night life of the world. In warm climates he sleeps all day and hunts for insects and other foods all night, with his keen small eyes penetrating the darkness and sighting prey that would be totally invisible to us in daylight.

In colder climates the bat hibernates, that is he goes to sleep for the colder part of the year, hanging in vast colonies of his kind in disused caves or old barns, far from the light of day and the trespass of man. Often in these colonies of sleeping bats, two or more will hang to one another by their toes, with the uppermost bearing the weight of the living chain so formed, while around them are shrouded the black mantle of their wings.

In this part of the world, where the Winter brings in its wake the piercing cold of northern snows, the bats seek Winter refuge in sleep, and will not reappear until the sun has grown a great deal warmer, and the evenings lengthen out into a long and milder twilight, when again for a moment we will see their flitting forms, ere nightfall hides them from our fascinated gaze.

ALWAYS ONE MORE.

Presence of Mind Often Saves Life

ONE striking instance of presence of mind and nerve preserving the life of their possessor occurs in the following, taken from the "Plains of the Great West" by Dodge.

"In 1870," runs the tale, "a small group of citizens were going up the Chiquaque Canon. The trail led along a bench, high above the bottom, in which were trees and thickets. The piping of young turkeys was heard in the thicket, and one of the citizens who carried a shotgun proposed that he should go down and kill some for supper. The party waited for him at the top. He had hardly disappeared in the thicket when he reappeared in full flight, while close at his heels followed a she-grizzly bear and two cubs. In a very few seconds she overtook him and struck him a powerful blow with her forepaw, knocking him senseless. She then deliberately smelt over the body, and deciding that he was dead, went slowly back to the thicket. Shortly afterwards the "body" sprang to his feet and made the best of his time to the top again. The citizen had been knocked senseless and winded by a blow across the back, which merely bruised him and did not cause any permanent injury. He recovered consciousness while the bear was smelling over him and had the presence of mind and nerve to keep still, knowing that therein lay his one chance for life."

Y.M.C.A. Juniors Busy With Varied Programme

INAUGURATED recently, the first round of a debating tournament held by the junior school classes of the Y.M.C.A. was staged last Friday night in the Boys' Work Department of that Institute, and proved a great success. Each of the clubs formed from the junior classes, entered teams, and were permitted to select their own topics in the debating tournament.

Such matters as "Supervised Sports in the Schools," "Are Motion Pictures Harmful?" and "Should Cadet Corps be Compulsory in the Schools?" were debated cleverly by the energetic teams entered by the various clubs of the junior organization.

One week from to-day will be "Stunt Night" with the Boys' Work Department, and on that occasion each club will present its favorite "stunt." The proceedings will be further enlivened with mock trials, community sing-songs and general merriment in the form of many and varied indoor games. Nearly all the clubs are preparing for the great occasion, which will, it is anticipated, far surpass all previous years in the volume of novel attractions to be staged.

enough the top board of the sled will have to be made of two pieces glued together. Fasten the top board to the runners and spreaders securely, using 1 1/2-inch screws.

A handy boy can make the sled shoes, or runners. Buy some iron rod, heat it, bend it to the proper shape, and drill holes for screws. A blacksmith will do this in a short time and for a very small sum. Flat, oval, half-round or round iron rod may be used. Should round iron be used it will be necessary to groove the wooden runner. Do this with a gouge.

The seat attachment is so easy to construct and so well explained in the drawing, I will not go into detail about it here. Fasten the parts together with 6d finishing nails and glue.

The box may be fastened to the sled with screws run up through the top board into cleats fastened to the sides and the ends of the box on the inside. But a much better way is to fasten the box to the sled with short bolts and wing nuts. No tool will then be necessary to remove the box from the sled for coasting.

After you have sandedpapered the parts well, paint the sled red and the box white. Three coats of paint will be required to produce a first class job.

Two spreaders are needed. Use two-inch screws to fasten them to the runners. Remember to bore holes for the screws and countersink them.

It will be necessary to brace the runners, also. Angle irons may be used, but wooden braces which you can make in your shop, will do. Our drawing gives the details of these wooden braces.

SOMETHING NOVEL IN CHURCH WORK

Dropping the Sales; Revenue Expands

To teas for profits; no sales of work; no bazaars; no rummage sales and no concerts to raise money. This has been the daring experiment of St. Michael's Anglican church, Vancouver, during the past year. That it has been a particularly successful one is indicated by the fact that the church's revenue this year has, it is said, eight times that of last year.

It was an important departure from precedent. From time immemorial money for the work of all churches has been raised by sales of work and rummage. The ladies' aid societies and like organizations and by concerts under young people's auspices. A month or so of hard sewing produced wonderful table linen or fancy articles, a week of baking gave birth to the most wonderful of cakes and pies—and then the sale of work and rummage was held. The proceeds went to the church. Sometimes they did not represent more than a small fraction of the cost of materials put to the work and no account was taken of the time of the workers.

The arduous hours of rehearsing for concerts and the embarrassments of selling tickets with similar results, and no matter how enthusiastic the spirit of the promoters and how happy their aim, much of the contribution in work and rummage went into their pockets.

But St. Michael's Church dropped its old time system last year and substituted for it that of "direct giving." An estimate was made of the money required for all church purposes, an appeal was made and answered with more cheerful giving than has been known for years.

Not that social functions have been eliminated altogether. They are still held for purposes of "getting acquainted." An estimate was made of the money required for all church purposes, an appeal was made and answered with more cheerful giving than has been known for years.

A report of the effect of the new system was made at the annual meeting of the vestry recently. In his report, the rector, Rev. G. H. Wilson, congratulated the vestry on the successful and enthusiastic way in which they had carried through the year.

Makes a Family Supply of Cough Remedy

Really better than ready-made cough syrup. Easily and quickly prepared.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup, which is easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, larified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is 16 ounces of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made and at a very low cost. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation acts right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for 2½ ounces of Pinex with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

NEW WARDENS CHOSEN IT SOOKE

Annual Vestry of Holy Trinity Church

Sooke, Jan. 20.—Rev. F. Comley, vicar of Metchoin and Sooke, presided at the annual vestry of Holy Trinity, Sooke. The vicar's warden, W. Miller Higgs, read the financial statement for 1921, which showed a deficit of $90.47.

The church wardens in presenting this balance sheet very much regretted the deficiency but stated that it must not be forgotten by the church and congregation that the year had commenced without any bank balance cash in hand, whereas the year 1920 had started with a balance in hand of $73.10 and then the wardens had had a deficiency of $53 at the close of the year which had been kindly made up by aid of the Ladies' Guild. This showed therefore a total deficiency in 1921 of $132.10, so that in considering the present report, the wardens wished to thank the congregation for their more liberal support to the work of the church during the last year, and hoped that the present deficiency of $90.47 would soon be covered, and the incoming wardens would again have a clear sheet.

The wardens were glad to feel that the church building is now in a good state of repair and that the $88.60 which has been obliged to be expended upon the building during 1921 would not be a drain upon the church funds for 1922. They very gratefully acknowledged the splendid assistance which they had received from the Ladies' Guild, a sum of no less than $217.25. In conclusion the wardens felt that the synod assessment was really very heavy, considering the size of the congregation, and the continual necessary upkeep of this mission church, with only two services in most months.

ST. MARY'S CHURCH RETAINS WARDENS

Annual Vestry Meeting Is Held

The annual vestry meeting of St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, attracted a large number of the parishioners.

The rector, Rev. G. H. Andrews, M.A., spoke briefly on the excellent organization which existed throughout all the institutions of the church and of the advance which had been made.

The Bishop of the Diocese addressed the meeting on the urgent necessity for greater financial assistance to the Diocesan Mission Fund.

The report of the churchwardens, audited statements of assets and liabilities and receipts and disbursements which, together with financial statements of the Org. Fund, Parish Hall Account, Sunday School, Ladies' Guild, Girls' Guild, Altar Guild and the several branches of the Women's Auxiliary had been printed and circulated, were thoroughly gone into and adopted.

The rector appointed Philip D. Goepel as his warden for the fourth year and J. S. Floyd was elected People's warden for the tenth time. The following were also elected: Church Committee, Beaumont Boggs, W. H. Burdock, Christmas Wm. Duncan, Sir R. Lake, E. M. McConnan, C. F. L. Money, A. Montzambert, Dr. E. M. Pearce, H. H. Rowley and J. A. Short; representatives to Synod, H. J. Beaton, Beaumont Boggs, J. S. Floyd, P. D. Goepel, Percy James and S. E. Smalley; representatives to Ruri-Decanal Conference, W. Barrowclough, E. T. Farquhar and H. H. Rowley; Dean of Sidemen, R. B. Price.

Several speakers referred to the excellent work of the choir, and upon motion of A. C. Crose, seconded by Dr. E. M. Pearce, it was resolved "that the best thanks of this meeting as representing the congregation of St. Mary's be tendered to J. S. Floyd and the choir for their admirable services during the past year. We fully appreciate the self-sacrifice involved on their part in giving up the time required to attain such excellent results. The Christmas music especially was a treat to be remembered."

BIBLE SCHOOLS URGED

Seattle, Jan. 21.—Establishment of Bible schools for children throughout the state during the school vacation period was advocated by the Seattle Presbytery at its meeting in the First Presbyterian Church. All of the sixty pastors present favored the plan and vacation schools of two, three and five weeks' courses will be started this coming Summer.

"We can do more to instill religion into the young people by a five weeks' course during the vacation period than we can by fifty-two weeks of Sunday schools," declared the Rev. J. W. Haymen, of the Woodland Park Church. "Parents will be glad to co-operate. The children have nothing to lose during the Summer and would love the work."

Introduction of the vacation Bible school idea started a discussion on the question of whether the Bible will ever be taught in the public schools of the state. According to the Rev. F. L. Forbes, of the First Presbyterian Church, the state law forbids the teaching of atheism in our schools. There are plenty of incidents to prove that atheism is being taught by some teachers. "I am not making any sweeping charge because I know the great majority of our school teachers are good Christian men and women. But there are isolated cases. One teacher I know of, when questioned by a child about the finding of Moses in the bulrushes, asked: 'You don't believe in those old myths, do you?'"

DR. UNSWORTH TO CLOSE MISSION

Co-operative Effort Has Been Productive of Much Good

Urgent official business, on the prairie making it necessary for Rev. D. N. McLachlan, B.D., Field Secretary of Home Missions, Social Service and Evangelism, to leave on the eve of the completion of the co-operative mission, held in Victoria West under the joint auspices of Wesley Methodist and St. Paul's Presbyterian Churches, Rev. J. K. Unsworth, D.D., and Mr. W. Dunnington, soloist, and a host of song-leaders, the Department of Evangelism, will bring the mission to a close to-morrow, conducting a united young people's service.

REV. DR. UNSWORTH.

The meeting in Wesley Church at 2.30 p.m. and a general service for both congregations and others, also in Wesley Church, at 7.30 p.m.

Rev. Dr. Unsworth, who is well known on the Coast, recently returned with his singing associate from an evangelistic tour of Alberta and the upper parts of British Columbia to make arrangements for a series of missions on Vancouver Island, beginning at Ladysmith, where Rev. J. C. Reid, B.A., pastor of the Presbyterian church, is looking forward to a successful campaign.

Prior to his admission to the Presbyterian Church, Dr. Unsworth, who is a man of genial disposition and a fine speaker, was a Congregationalist minister and held pastorates in Montreal and Vancouver.

All contributions and offerings taken at the meetings go to assist in carrying on the evangelistic and social work in the downtown districts of our great cities, fresh air work for poverty-stricken mothers and redemptive work for girls, society in need of friends.

"ST. PAUL" WILL BE PERFORMED

Mendelssohn's Oratoria at the First Presbyterian Church

Soon

On Tuesday, February 14, a chorus of 120 voices will render Mendelssohn's great oratorio "St. Paul" in the auditorium of the First Presbyterian Church. A fine chorus has been organized for this occasion, and the rehearsals have been well attended. This is Mendelssohn's first oratorio, and although not as well known as the other standard works given from time to time, it has been the custom to render one of the oratorios each year in the First Presbyterian Church, and these performances are looked upon as important events in the musical life of the city.

This oratorio contains some very fine writing in which a large chorus can be heard to advantage. Special mention may be made of the fine setting of the "Arie, Shine." This number contains some passages requiring very careful rendition to get the desired effect as the parts are most independent, in fact the whole oratorio is written in contrapuntal style. The strong, massive chorus "O Great is the Depth" is a fine chorus, full of contrasts and shading. This concludes the first part of the work. The second part deals with the incidents in the life of the Apostle after conversion, and concludes with a "Song of Thanksgiving."

Mr. John E. Pacey, the well known baritone of Vancouver, who sang the bass solos so effectively in "The Messiah," has been secured again and will take the part of the Apostle in the oratorio. Victorians will remember his fine rendition of the most difficult passages in the performance of the Messiah. Tickets are now ready and may be obtained from members of the chorus. All lovers of music are urged to keep this date free, as this performance promises to be exceptionally fine.

Unitarian Special Service.—At First Unitarian Church to-morrow morning Mrs. Chas. H. Thompson, of Berkeley, California, Field Secretary of the Young People's Religious Union of the Pacific Coast, will address the congregation on topics related to the work of that branch of the Unitarian Church. Mrs. Thompson visited Victoria a year ago and made a most favorable impression as an earnest and capable religious organizer.

ANGLICANS PREPARE FOR DIOCESAN SYNOD

Annual Church Meetings to Begin Here Feb. 14

The twenty-second meeting of the Diocese of British Columbia is announced to take place in Victoria on February 15 and 16. The sessions of the synod will be preceded by the observance of "Quiet Hours" for the clergy on Tuesday, February 14, and the customary "At Home" for clerical and lay representatives at "Bishop's Close" on the evening of February 14. Services and meetings in connection with the synod continue for the two days, February 15-16. A public meeting will be held on Wednesday evening, February 15, in St. John's schoolroom, when the subject of addresses and discussion will be "The Responsibilities of the Laity in Church Life."

DIOCESAN W. A. HAS BUSY SESSION

Interesting Reports and Addresses at Yesterday's Meeting at St. John's

Many interesting matters pertaining to church and mission work were discussed at the meeting of the Columbia Women's Auxiliary of the parish room yesterday. Mrs. W. H. Belson presided and sixty-six members were present. A hearty welcome was extended to the visiting committee, and the afternoon session was presided over by Mrs. W. H. Belson. The meeting was held in St. John's church.

Diocesan officers' reports occupied much of the morning session, showing satisfactory progress in all branches, particularly in the work of the Social Service Council, three of the conference on Festivals on the coast.

Reports were given of the Christmas tree at the Anglican Chinese mission and the men's social. Owing to the illness of the Rev. Mr. Brake, his kindly assisted Mrs. Cook whenever possible.

Rev. F. A. P. Chadwick read the midday prayers and gave an impressive Epiphany address, reading some of the splendid testimonies to missions paid by leading men, including three British field marshals.

St. John's W. A. furnished an excellent luncheon, and the afternoon session commenced at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Quainton reading prayers and intercession. The president asked for nominations for the offices of Girls' and Candidates' secretary, and Little Helpers' secretary, Miss Archibald being elected to take the first-mentioned office, and Miss Nichol the Little Helpers' secretary.

An address by the Bishop of Columbia explained the position of the Oriental mission and future plans in connection with the same. The Dean of Columbia, it was announced, will give a course of addresses on Tuesday afternoons during Lent for the W. A. members and all who are interested. The treasurer read correspondence received from the Dominion treasurer re appointment of clergy fund. Announcement was made of a talent tea and concert to be given on Wednesday afternoon, February 25, by the Cathedral Girls' Branch of the W. A.

The final address of the session was given by the Rev. N. A. Smith, who described the work of the Unitarian Mission to Central China. Mrs. Schofield moved the vote of thanks to the speakers, and to the St. John's W. A. for their hospitality.
